59th annual South Shore Arts Festival

Father's Day Weekend always means one thing in Cohasset - the South Shore Arts Festival descends upon the town common, featuring the best of New England's artists and crafters.

This year - the festival's 59th - is shaping up to be no different, with over 90 craft vendors, and even more artists, showcasing their work and wares under the tent on the town green throughout the weekend.

In addition to nearly 100 juried exhibitor booths, the Arts Fest features a juried art exhibition and members' show, live music performances, artist demonstrations, children's art activities and a young artist exhibition.

According to the South Shore Art Center (SSAC), which puts on the event, the festival draws over 9,000 visitors from the greater Boston area each year.

SSAC Executive Director

Sarah Hannan said that, just like every year, she hopes the weather will hold out for the weekend-long festival.

"That's always key," she said. With the various exhibits, outdoor entertainment and food available all weekend long, it's no wonder the chance of rain is a worry; however, the festivities will continue, rain or shine.

FLAG DAY

SHOWING RESPECT FOR OUR FLAG

Showing respect

Most of us have shed a tear at events when Old Glory is raised or lowered. We place our hand over our heart or salute as the Star Spangled Banner or other patriotic music is played. Pride in our flag is something most Americans share. But today with the Stars and Stripes adorning everything from running shorts to plastic cups, most of us have no understanding about how to show respect for our flag on a regular basis.

Flag Day

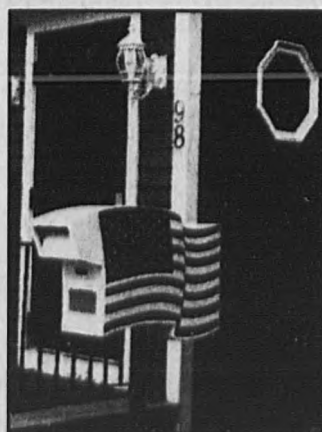

With Flag Day coming June 14, it's a good time to take a look at our flags and see if they need to be replaced. Flag Day is the anniversary of the Continental Congress's Flag Resolution on June 14, 1777. The resolution established the flag as having 13 alternating red and white stripes; and the white stars (13 at the time) on a blue field. The Proclamation of President Woodrow Wilson officially established Flag Day in 1916. And in 1949, President Harry Truman signed an Act of Congress designating June 14 of each year as National Flag Day.

Worn flags

Most of us mean no harm when we allow our flags displayed on our homes or atop flag poles at our businesses to become worn. But, truthfully, that is a sign of disrespect. We owe it to all those who fought for our flag - which the symbol of the freedom we enjoy - to ensure our old flag is either cleaned and mended, or retired and replaced when it is no longer fit to serve as a symbol of our country. The red, white and blue of Old Glory, no matter how small or large, should be vibrant - the edges crisp. A bright, fresh flag shows we continue to renew our belief in all that the Stars and Stripes stand for. Old flags can be dropped off at the American Legion Post on Summer Street. There is a special "mailbox" outside for collecting them.

Displaying the flag

- On a building - Hang the flag on a staff or on a rope over the sidewalk with the stars away from the building.
Over the street - Hang the flag with the stars to the east on a north-south street or north on an east-west street.
In a window - Hang the flag vertically with the stars to the left of anyone looking at it from the street.
In a hall or lobby - Hang the flag vertically across from the main entrance with the stars to the left of anyone coming through the door.

TOBACCO SALES

Still 18 to buy

By Erin Dale
edale@wickedlocal.com

The legal age to purchase tobacco is staying put in Cohasset.

The Cohasset Board of Health voted unanimously (3-0) to adopt tobacco regulations during the Tuesday, June 10 meeting, enacting a pharmacy ban (effective Jan. 1, 2015) restricting e-cigarettes, and keeping the legal purchasing age at 18, despite nearby towns like Scituate recently upping the age to 21.

Board of Health agent Felix Zemel noted that 20 Massachusetts towns, including Scituate, have changed to 21, while others have gone to 19. Watertown recently went up to 19, but the city's board of health will meet next week to reconsider making it 21, said Zemel, "based upon the rationale" of statistics showing that "95 percent of those who are under 18 who admit to smoking obtain their tobacco products from someone under the age of 21," while "about 95 to 98 percent of people who admitted to being chain smokers in adulthood started under age 21.

"We're protecting kids under 18 by cutting off their supply chain," Zemel added.

The health board members were weary to alter the purchasing age, however.

Elizabeth Kirk said, "While I recognize the merits of raising the age to 21, I don't feel like I'm in the position to stand in front of the town and say, 'This is what the town should do.'"

Robin Lawrence was against the proposed age hike as a matter of principle, since people can serve in the military at age 18.

"I still feel strongly about those young men and women put in harm's way at age of 18," said Lawrence, adding, "Five of our soldiers died today in Afghanistan; maybe three of them were smokers."

The regulations also ban the sale of tobacco products

Attorney at Law

AN UNDENIABLE FACT

While we may try to avoid the unpleasant truth that death spares no one, it is best to be prepared for the inevitable. Yet, according to one recent survey, two-thirds of Americans have no will. While some circumstances may lend themselves to wills written by computer programs, an attorney can point out details and pose scenarios that the average person might not consider. Taking these factors into account helps to clarify a person's intentions, thereby ensuring the desired outcome. With this in mind, the more complex a person's circumstances, the more he or she stands to benefit from having a lawyer draw up his or her will. Blended families, ex-spouses, and other special conditions warrant professional advice.

An attorney who regularly practices in the fields of wills, trusts and estate planning will provide you with sound legal advice and ensure that your will is complete and legally valid. For further information, call (781) 834-4500. Located at 769 Plain Street we invite you to email us at phillips569@aol.com or visit us online at www.attorneykevinphillips.com.

HINT: If your estate is worth more than the $5 million federal exemption pertaining to gifts that you may give to others upon your death, you should discuss estate planning with an attorney.

Motor vehicle crashes piling up all over town

By Mary Ford
mford@wickedlocal.com

MVC

Police investigated at two-vehicle crash on Chief Justice Cushing Highway (Route 3A) by Leo's Gulf Station on Monday (June 2) around 8:37 a.m. Police said a 41-year-old Falmouth woman in a gray 2006 Toyota Corolla was pulling out of the gas station driveway near the Dunkin Donuts drive-thru attempting to make a left toward Scituate across two lanes of oncoming traffic. A vehicle in the right (outside) lane that was headed north stopped to let her pull out but the black 2004 Nissan Altima in the inside lane, also headed north, did not see the Toyota and the two cars crashed.

The Falmouth woman was cited for failure to yield to oncoming traffic. The operator of the Altima, a 29-year-old Brazilian man, was not at fault, but investigation revealed he did not have a license. His car was towed and he is being summonsed to Quincy District Court to face the criminal charge of operating without a license. There were no reported injuries, police said.

MVC

At 1:15 p.m. on Tuesday (June 3), police responded to a two-car accident on King Street at the lights by Stop & Shop. Police said a 1998 Lincoln Town Car, operated by a 26-year-old N. Weymouth man, was attempting to turn left at the lights into Cohasset Plaza when he cut in front of a 2003 Chevrolet Astrovan that was headed north on King Street, causing a collision.

The Weymouth man was cited for failure to yield to oncoming traffic. Neither vehicle was towed and there were no injuries, police said.

MVC

At about 10 a.m. on Thursday (June 5), police responded to a single-car crash on North Main Street by Great Swamp. Police said a 2013 Volvo XC90, operated by a 67-year-old Tucson, Ariz. woman, was traveling south on N. Main Street when she veered off the road, striking several cement pilings and then hitting a utility pole, splitting it in half.

The Volvo ended up on its side, half submerged in the gully. The woman was standing outside the vehicle when help arrived. She declined medical treatment, was coherent and had been wearing her seatbelt, police said. Witnesses had observed her car drifting when she was driving and the woman did not recall why she went off the road. She was cited for marked lanes violation and the Volvo had to be towed. The woman's daughter-in-law came to pick her up and she was advised to see her personal physician.

Hit & run

Police installed barricades on North Main Street on Thursday morning (June 5) while the accident involving the Arizona woman in the Volvo was being investigated, the Volvo was being towed out of the gully and the utility pole replaced. However, that did not stop a motorist in a red Nissan SUV from crashing through one of the barricades near the N. Main Street entrance to the train station and take off. A caller, who witnessed the incident, notified police.

MVC

Police responded to a motor vehicle crash by Good Sport on King Street at 2:54 p.m. on Thursday (June 5). Police said a 2002 GMC pickup truck operated by a 17-year-old Hull boy was passing by Good Sport when a 2007 Toyota Camry pulled out of the driveway at the strip mall and into the side of the GMC. The collision sent the GMC across the southbound lane and into a pole near the entrance to the Avalon complex, police said. The Camry took off but multiple witnesses provided photos of the car on their cell phones. A short time later a 55-year-old Rockland man, who works in town, called police to report he had been in a crash.

The damage on his car was consistent with the accident. The man told police he was unaware that he had hit another vehicle. He was cited for failure to yield to oncoming traffic and also faces the criminal charge of

Bike accident

The 62-year-old Quincy man operating a 2004 Mercedes convertible is being cited for failure to yield to a bicycle following an accident on Sunday (June 8) around 1 p.m., police said. Police responded to 9-1-1 calls reporting a bicycle-car accident near the Corner Stop Eatery on Hull Street.

Police said the Mercedes was attempting a left-hand turn into the parking lot at the restaurant when he hit the bicyclist who was traveling toward Hull. The bike hit the right, passenger side of the car, shattering the windshield. The 65-year-old Scituate man on the bike flew over the windshield and into the back seat.

A nurse and doctor who were eating at the restaurant provided first aid. The bicyclist, who was wearing a helmet, was transported to the hospital and was later released. The bike was towed and the Mercedes had to be towed, police said.

leaving the scene of an accident after causing property damage. He is being summonsed to Quincy District Court to face those charges.

The pickup had to be towed. The driver and his passenger were still able to get to the prom in Hull. Police said the boys had their boutonnieres in the truck. There were no injuries.

MVC

A 9-1-1 caller notified police on Thursday (June 5) around 9:35 p.m. that a vehicle had hit a hydrant, knocking it off, and then fled the scene. Left behind was a bumper that, according to police, belongs to a Pontiac Grand Prix, year 1995-2004. There was no plate left behind. Police issued a notice to surrounding police departments to be on the lookout for the vehicle. The water department replaced the hydrant.

Happy ending

A 102-year-old Cohasset woman, who lives at Sunrise, caused a stir on Tuesday (June 3) when no one could locate her. The assisted living home called 9-1-1 after staff had checked the building, parking lot and grounds to no avail. Police arrived and the K-9 unit was dispatched. However, officers were able to determine that the centenarian, who had been described as a very independent lady, had been picked up earlier at Sunrise by a friend and was happily playing cards at a home on Third Cliff in Scituate.

Towed

Police had an unoccupied gray 2002 Toyota Sequoia towed that was partially blocking the intersection at Howe and Jerusalem roads on Monday morning (June 2) around 7:30 a.m., after attempts to reach the owner were unsuccessful. Police left messages on the answering machine of the registered owner, a 53-year-old Hull man. Hull police made contact with the wife who said she would contact Cohasset police after her show. CPD called Scituate Collision that towed the vehicle.

Bike missing

The 45-year-old mother of a 9-year-old boy who left his bicycle in the bike rack at Deer Hill School reported on Monday (June 2) that her son's black and green Trek valued at $425 was taken sometime after 3 p.m. the previous Friday to Saturday morning. The boy had been picked up after school and left his bike. Police do not have any current leads.

Dumping

Police received another complaint last week (Wednesday, June 4) about the illegal dumping of yard debris in the conservation area off Cushing Road near Ellms Meadow where a town well is located. Police spoke with the alleged perpetrator who was told to cease the activity. The area is posted that no dumping is allowed.

Public nudity

Police responded to a complaint on Thursday morning (June 5) about a 63-year-old Cohasset man who had been observed walking around his yard naked and defecating outside. Officers went to his address and the man denied the allegations, police said. Police said there have been prior reports that the man was defecating and using his waste as compost. Police warned him that if there were any more reports, he would be reported to the Board of Health and could possibly face criminal prosecution.

Shoplifting

Cohasset police and their counterparts in Scituate were able to identify two local women through video surveillance at CVS in Tedeschi Plaza who are being charged with shoplifting.

The store called police on Thursday (June 5) to report that two women had stolen about $80 in cosmetics. Police identified the women, who are known to police, as a 21-year-old from Scituate and a 20-year-old from Hingham. They are being summonsed to court to face the charge of shoplifting by asportation.

Suspicious man

Police investigated a report of a suspicious man in a black Ford SUV on Friday (June 6) acting suspiciously and approaching customers at the ATM at Shaw's Plaza. Police know the man, who is 59 and lives nearby. There was no criminal intent, they said.

Purse stolen

An 18-year-old Hull woman who had parked outside Dunkin Donuts on King Street for a few minutes on Saturday evening (June 7) returned to her car to discover her purse had been stolen.

Missing were the handbag valued at about $100, driver's license, social security card, debit card and gift cards. She was advised to contact her bank to cancel her cards. She will have to apply for a duplicate license. The handbag was on the passenger's side floor in the unlocked 2007 Suzuki Reno.

Warrant arrest

A 47-year-old Quincy man was arrested on a default warrant after police found him allegedly intoxicated outside Walgreen's on Sunday (June 8) around 2:45 p.m.

A cell caller notified police that a man was staggering near Walgreen's, holding a pair of black clogs. The caller was worried that the man who appeared drunk would attempt to drive off in the 2011 gray BMW he had allegedly arrived in.

Police found the man hiding behind one of the pillars outside the store. He was unsteady on his feet and was showing the signs and symptoms of intoxication. He did not have a license but showed an ID card. Further investigation revealed the man, Garry D. Payne, 47, of 41 Hillside Dr. #19, Quincy, was wanted on a warrant for failure to pay fines for drunk-driving incident.

Police arrested him on the warrant; he was not charged with drunken driving because they did not see him operating the vehicle. He was held overnight until arraignment.

GRADUATES

Graduation is scheduled to begin at 1:30 p.m., although the time could have been changed to accommodate the boys' lacrosse team, who beat Hamilton-Wenham on Wednesday and will play in the MIAA finals this Saturday at 7 p.m. at Boston University, facing off against Dover-Sherborn.

If the game had been earlier, graduation might have taken place at 12:30 p.m. instead, according to Superintendent Barbara Cataldo, who noted that the MIAA was accommodating to place Cohasset at the end of the order for Saturday's games. Cataldo also noted that at least 10 senior boys are on the lacrosse team, which meant that 10 percent of the class could have either missed graduation or chosen between the ceremony and the game.

The ceremony also happens to coincide with the annual South Shore Arts Festival, which takes place in the South Shore Art Center and on the town common. The schools provided extra parking in the Deer Hill School parking lot to accommodate festival patrons, who would normally park in the Music Circus.

Otherwise, the graduation events will proceed as usual. The CHS administrators are happy to see the students graduate, yet sorry to see them go.

CHS principal Carolyn Connolly said that the senior class "has proven itself to be dedicated to the community and to the school as a whole. They have impressed me with their enthusiasm and dedication to leaving the school a better place. They have enacted new traditions, improved on older ones, and set a fine example for the students who will come after them. I look forward to celebrating with the class and their families on the 14th."

Assistant principal Brian Scott said that he's enjoyed working with the seniors, especially over the past school year.

"It's an incredibly accomplished class in so many different ways," said Scott. "Academically they are among the best I've been around, but we've also had championship level athletics in each season and some of the most musically and artistically talented students."

"The breadth of their abilities is awesome and to watch them create has been so much fun," the assistant principal added. "More importantly, though, I find them to be good people. The ways they have shown themselves to be caring of others makes me think that their talents will be put to good use."

knit group, according to Senior Class Vice-President (and Cohasset Mariner CHS columnist) Matthew McCormack, who will be giving the president's speech on Saturday, since Class President Tim Cavanaro (this week's "Picture This" feature!) is speaking as Salutatorian.

While many of the students have been close, spending 13 years in classes together, McCormack thinks the class has grown even closer as their time together comes to an end. "We came together more in the last couple weeks of the year as we've gotten closer to graduation," said McCormack.

Valedictorian Alexandros Deligiannidis credits the closeness – and the class's individual academic and athletic successes – to the small size of the class, and the town. As a result, said Deligiannidis, "The teachers are very caring."

The valedictorian, who is headed to the University of Pennsylvania to study economics, said that he categorizes the class of 2014 as "motivated" and "hardworking."

Student Council president Sam Curatola agreed, calling his classmates "driven and hardworking," and yet able to "enjoy life and not take things too seriously."

Seniors were done with classes on May 23 and have spent the past few weeks enjoying outside-of-the-classroom learning, including a day trip to Boston and completing community service projects around town.

McCormack said that his group worked with the town's Elder Affairs department, weeding, mulching and washing vans. Other groups worked at Holly Hills Farm or at the harbor.

"It was good doing a little handiwork and fun to be out doing something for a change," said McCormack.

On Wednesday, the seniors got together for a very special occasion – receiving their caps and gowns. For McCormack, it was a visual reminder that his high school days really are coming to an end this week.

"It got very real today," he said in a phone call Wednesday.

This is why many, McCormack included, call their graduation day "bittersweet."

"I'm very excited, but it's also kind of bittersweet," he said, "looking at the last 13 years of school in Cohasset coming to an end."

Cavanaro said that while he feels a "sense of closure" approaching graduation day, "it's also kind of emotional, ending such a large chapter in our lives. Some of us have been together 13 years; departing from that group is going to be tough."

However, the class president added, parting is "necessary."

"We have to branch out," Cavanaro said.

Curatola said that leaving Cohasset is both sad and exciting, however, "getting this chance to see the world is something I look forward to immensely."

However, there's no place like home, the student council president added.

"Cohasset has provided me with an incredible experience that I wouldn't trade for anything, and the people I've shared it with is a truly unique group of kids."

While it may seem "cliché," McCormack said he looks forward to "opening new doors." The class VP heads to Northeastern University in the fall, where he will study journalism and hope to break into sports anchoring.

And as he prepares to give his big speech on Saturday, valedictorian Deligiannidis is also reflective on "capping" off his high school career.

"I think that even though high school has been a great time and we've made a lot of progress in this time, the best years are still to come," said Deligiannidis.

Should Cohasset try the PARCC test?

School board to vote

By Erin Dale
edale@wickedlocal.com

The Cohasset School Committee will decide whether or not to test-drive the new PARCC assessment standardized test next year instead of taking the MCAS.

According to Superintendent Barbara Cataldo, the Massachusetts Comprehensive Assessment System test (MCAS) is being phased out across the state in favor of PARCC, which stands for Partnership for Assessment of Readiness for College and Careers. The PARCC, which is online-based, is in line with state Common Core standards for math and English competency.

Schools have the option to test drive PARCC for grades three through eight next spring in place of the MCAS. The school committee will vote on this at an upcoming meeting; Cataldo said they have until June 30 to decide whether to go with PARCC.

During the June 4 School Committee meeting, Cataldo said that she learned during a recent meeting of South Shore superintendents that some schools are holding off on PARCC because they "don't have enough technology" to administer an all-online test. Some want to remain with MCAS for a final year. "Everybody has a different reason" for wanting to go with MCAS or PARCC, Cataldo said.

The state will vote in October on whether PARCC will be the new standardized test moving forward. "There is no guarantee it will be the PARCC," said Cataldo. "But it will not be the MCAS."

Either way, the superintendent added, there will be no MCAS by the 2016 school year. The 2015 test-drive will take place during a "hold harmless" period, so a bad score won't count against a student.

Cataldo thinks test-driving PARCC would be "advantageous."

"It will give us a preview of what will be forthcoming and give a measure of where the strengths, weaknesses and gaps are, and what we will need to further fortify our curriculum," the superintendent said.

Since schools that try PARCC early will be held harmless, Curriculum Director Louise Demas said that Cohasset has nothing to lose. "We can only gain."

School Committee chairman Paul Ognibene said that before the board takes a vote, he would like to know what peer school districts outside of Cohasset's "geographic peer group" are leaning.

"What are the other top ten schools doing?" Ognibene asked, referring to schools that, like Cohasset, rated high in the Boston magazine and U.S. News and World Report rankings.

"It would be interesting to see."

Cataldo said she would reach out to peer districts and report back to the committee.

Fathers!

Hello Cohasset. I am sending out a Happy Father's Day message to all Dads, Grandpas, Uncles, and special "father figures" out there.

Whatever it is that you are doing this weekend to celebrate, make sure to say a special thanks to the awesome men in you and your children's lives. Enjoy!

Scholar leaders

We have some students to honor and recognize in the column in this week. Here we go...

8th Grade students Kaitlyn Patterson and Charles Pyne were selected by the teachers and administrators of Cohasset Middle School as this year's Scholar Leaders. Kaitlyn and Charlie were among 80 other middle school students across the state recently recognized by the Commonwealth of Middle School Educators and the New England League of Middle Schools. The criteria for this award are achieving high academic standing throughout middle school and demonstrating integrity, honesty, self-discipline, courage, and peer leadership on a consistent basis. Congratulations Kaitlyn and Charlie!

ent basis. Congratulations Kaitlyn and Charlie!

Hofstra

Mackenzie Nolan, a student at Hofstra University, has excelled during the Spring 2014 semester, earning at least a 3.5 grade point average and a spot on the Dean's List. Mackenzie is a sophomore majoring in Public Relations. Awesome job and news, Mackenzie.

LIFE AT CHS

Signing off on a great four years

MATTHEW MACCORMACK

As I sat down to type this column, with the beaming, mechanical light of the computer illuminating my living room, it dawned on me that this is the final time that the Life at CHS column will be my brainchild. No longer will it be the series of click-clacks resonating from my keyboard that piece together this weekly update. I told myself that I must limit my use of trite phrases in this ultimate submission, but the beauty of cliché is its resounding truth. In the end, all good things must come to an end.

And to be honest, that's how things are feeling across the board for the seniors at Cohasset High. Our required time at 143 Pond Street has dwindled down into nothingness, and we seniors now must move on.

Everything became extremely real this Wednesday morning, when the Class of 2014 gathered in the CHS auditorium to receive their caps and gowns. Staring at the shiny, silky robes, protruding caps, and feathery tassels that were handed out seemed to bring about that final realization that everything is just about over.

But nonetheless, there is still plenty of material in which to recount! Last week was largely uneventful, as students met on only two days. Monday saw the handing-out of yearbooks, which were artfully prepared by the Yearbook Committee and their wonderful staff advisors, Mrs. Humphrey and Ms. Guiliano. The messages that students inscribed with felt tip Sharpies on their classmates' yearbooks ranged from hilarious to touching, and the yearbook signing was certainly a great moment together as a class.

Thursday the 5th saw students meet for a Teacher Service day. 2014ers dispersed across the High School, Middle School, Deer Hill and Osgood to do various odd jobs for teachers. Students read at story time, cleaned out bookshelves, moved sports equipment, and more. It was fantastic to be able to connect with past teachers and show at least a few ounces of gratitude for all hard work that our past administrators have put forth. As part of the day, seniors also made out hand written thank you cards to deliver to teachers across the district. The day of service ended with an appearance by the famous Nona's Ice Cream truck, which, despite the overcast and drizzles, served up scoop after heaping scoop of frozen creamy treat.

Meanwhile, the activities of this past week were geared more towards preparing for graduation than anything else. On Monday, students enjoyed a quick breakfast in the courtyard. During their morning sustenance intake, several students received letters that they had written to their future selves back in Mr. Afanasiw's freshman World History class. It was hilarious to read about our embarrassing freshman days, and we thank Coach A for overseeing such a fun activity. After the breakfast and a few laughs, seniors faced a more serious message, going into the auditorium to take in the famous Stevermen presentation. Mrs. Stevermen is a Scituate mother who recounts the cautionary tale of her son PJ, who attempted to walk home one night after drinking, and ended up going missing. It was certainly a worthwhile experience that encouraged students to make smart choices as they head into what hopes to be a safe and exciting summer.

After receiving caps and gowns on Wednesday, students did a quick run-through of what to expect on Class Night, which took place on Thursday night. Seniors were awarded various scholarships from several generous funds, and it was fantastic to see the achievements of Cohasset's own recognized. Friday morning brought students to Graduation Rehearsal at the Music Circus, in which procession drills and walking styles were hammered into the heads of reluctant seniors.

But certainly, practicing of the logistics and formalities will make everything go smoothly when graduation actually comes around at 1:30 pm this Saturday. The CHS Concert Band will be in attendance providing the tunes, and speeches will be made by valedictorian Alexandros Deligiannidis, salutatorian/class president/underachiever Timothy Cavanaro, and class vice president, yours truly.

It would be an understatement to say that graduation will be a surreal event. When those caps are heaved into the air and cascade down into the seats of the Music Circus, emotions will certainly be running high. At this point, it's hard to say what all of us Class of 2014ers will be feeling, but we will just have to wait and see.

Well folks, it looks like the last few glandules of sand are falling through the proverbial egg timer; it's time for me to say my goodbye. By my tally, I have written 33 Life at CHS columns over the past year, and I have to say I wouldn't take back any of them. This has been an enriching experience for an aspiring journalist, and I have thoroughly enjoyed being the messenger between 143 Pond Street and the rest of Cohasset. It wouldn't be a proper goodbye without giving a shout out to my main lady, Mrs. Mary Ford of The Mariner, who has been my light through this whole process. And I also have to give my thanks to Whitney Malone, the Class of 2013 graduate who passed down the Life at CHS torch to me one year ago.

Which may cause you to ponder; Who will be my replacement next year?

I will not yet reveal that morsel my friends, but I assure you I have chosen a well-rounded and enthusiastic successor to the Life at CHS throne.

That is all for now, good readers. I thank you sincerely for traveling alongside me this past year. Although this represents the end of my stint as a Life at CHS columnist, I am certainly not done writing for The Mariner, and look forward to my Journalism studies at Northeastern University in Boston next fall. It's been a great ride; hope everyone has a good life!

Oh yeah, and I almost forgot; keep it classy Cohasset!

COHASSET WORKING DOG FOUNDATION

Welcome, SD 'Parker'

Learn more about service dogs Sunday

It's taken a year to ready a young Goldendoodle to provide invaluable assistance to a little girl in Cohasset.

Over the past 12 months, service dog (SD) "Parker" has undergone extensive training with multiple trainers in order to learn his duties. This week, he comes to Cohasset to fully take on the job he was born to do.

SD Parker is the first product of the Cohasset Working Dog Foundation's (CWDF) service dog grant program.

"This is the fulfillment of our pledge to the community," says CWDF founder Trish Morse. The organization now supports four working dogs in Cohasset - SD "Parker", Cohasset's Police K9 "Erik" and two therapy dogs, "Sophie" and "Lyle". "It's been a wonderful experience bringing these programs to the community," Morse said. CWDF plans to seek applicants for its next service dog grant later this summer.

CWDF found assistance through the process from Georgia-based 1Boy4Change, a non-profit founded by 16 year-old Chris Carswell, which assists in providing service dogs to children and veterans. Carswell founded the organization after he and his family experienced the challenging process of getting a service dog to help him with seizures and other medical conditions. Carswell's service dog, SD "Bronx" will also be coming to Cohasset with the team. SD Bronx was The American Humane Association's "Hero Dog" in the service dog category in 2013. Carswell and his mother, Janet, trained SD "Parker" as a young puppy.

Next, Parker traveled to Tennessee where he received his finishing training from James Quarterman at Island Grove Kennels. Quarterman has helped train and graduate 19 service dog teams for 1Boy4Change. Carswell has placed 46 service dogs with children and 14 service dogs with veterans nationwide and in Canada.

The Carswells and Quarterman are driving to Cohasset this weekend to bring SD Parker to his new family.

"He'll go through a weeklong training with the family," Morse said. "Before the training team leaves Cohasset next weekend, Parker will have developed a strong bond with his girl."

To welcome SD Parker to town, and to learn about how we should respond when we meet service dogs in our community, the CWDF is hosting an event this Sunday, June 15 at 5:15 p.m. on the Common.

"It will be the public's opportunity to meet this awesome dog before he begins his work," Morse said.

The event is a chance for the community to learn more about service dogs, including their duties, training and proper etiquette around them. SD Parker will demonstrate some of his training as well.

Joining SD "Parker" at the event will be SD "Bronx", K-9 "Erik", and therapy dogs Sophie and Lyle. The training team and SD Bronx will also do a demonstration at Deer Hill School on Monday morning, (June 16).

DISHING IT OUT

Strawberry Fair

Meet Executive Chef Casey McKinley

By Erin Tiernan

We're dishing it out this week at Strawberry Fair in Norwell where we recently chatted with executive chef Casey McKinley about the comfort food and family vibes that make the charming little restaurant "berry" popular.

Name of staff and position:
Casey McKinley, Executive Chef

How long have you worked here:
My mother is the owner and I've been working here since I was a kid. I started with (washing) dishes and have been working here on and off for my whole life. I've been the chef here for the past 10 years and loving it.

How long have you been open: My grandmother opened the place in 1976.

How do you describe Strawberry Fair's fare: It's comfort food. It's homemade cooking, stuff that takes

Newest item on the menu:

Maeve's monster pancake is a skillet-sized pancake with a choice of plain, strawberry, blueberry, banana or chocolate chip topping. It was inspired by my 12-year-old niece.

What should diners expect when eating at Strawberry Fair: Diners should expect comfort food in a comfortable, cozy atmosphere. The restaurant is filled with knickknacks that my grandmother painted and created. It's a place to kick back and relax.

What is your food/dining out philosophy: It's all about being a family place. We have been open since 1976, the hostess Patty has been

What makes Strawberry fair unique:

FESTIVAL

As always, the town's churches will come together to offer lobster rolls and strawberry shortcake, one of Hannan's favorite parts of the festival. "What I like is the cooperation of the churches with the lobster rolls and strawberry festival," she shared, along with the carillon concert by Mary Kennedy on Saturday.

There will be live entertainment throughout the weekend, including a performance by former American Idol contestant Siobhan Magnus, along with local musician Brian Stratton. Stratton's band, The Infractions, will also perform on Saturday (see sidebar).

In addition to nearly 100 juried exhibitor booths, the Arts Fest features a juried art exhibition and members' show, live music performances, artist demonstrations, children's art activities and a young artist exhibition.

Cohasset act The Rusty Skippers, as well as the high school jazz band, are also playing during the festival. There is also a jazz reception at 5:30 on Saturday afternoon at the SSAC.

Festival patrons can appreciate – and purchase – artwork by local painters, photographers and sculptors, including work by Lauren Bass of Hingham, who recently won the Dorothy Palmer painting prize, or that of Cohasset botanical artist Sarah Roche, who won first and third prizes in watercolor and teaches at the SSAC.

In addition to the "couple hundred" artists whose work will be featured under the big tent on the common, there are around 90 craft artists showcasing and selling jewelry, scarves, totebags, and the ever-popular rope mats made out of lobster rope.

The nautical mats make for "one of our biggest sellers" each year, said Hannan.

While the high school graduation takes place at the South Shore Music Circus during the middle of the festival on Saturday afternoon (festival patrons, who can normally park at the Music Circus, can park at the Deer Hill School instead, where trolleys will run to and from the common), Hannan doesn't think there will be a negative impact on the festival.

If anything, having graduation occur simultaneously could be a boon for the event.

"I hope we'll get more traffic," Hannan said, adding with a laugh, "If you haven't picked up a graduation gift, I know where you can get one!"

Ads feature Cohasset animal charity

By Erin Dale
edale@wickedlocal.com

If you ride the commuter rail from the Greenbush station to Boston, you might have noticed an advertisement with an eye-catching combination — models and puppies.

Glamorous models and Beatrice the dog, an 11-year-old basset hound puppy mill survivor, are the faces of the Companion Animal Protection Society's (CAPS) national campaign designed to educate the public about atrocities in puppy mills and the risks associated with buying dogs at pet shops supplied by these facilities.

CAPS was founded by Cohasset resident Deborah Howard in 1992, taking puppy mills and their breeders to task for animal cruelty. CAPS has conducted undercover investigations and has a documentary chronicling the undercover employment of a CAPS investigator who compiled the evidence necessary to convict one of the most notorious dog brokers of animal cruelty and terminate her USDA license.

The "Models Against Pet Shops and Puppy Mills" campaign promotes adoption of rescue and shelter animals. Advertising components include public service announcements airing on cable networks and local stations across the country, print ads, billboards, transit posters, social media efforts led by Beatrice, and related public relations and marketing efforts.

Howard said the campaign "is designed to make sure that beautiful animals like Beatrice are treated with kindness and the utmost respect no matter where they are and who is caring for them. It's so important to inform the public about this important animal protection issue and educate them about the sources of that cute puppy in the window or sold over the Internet."

The animal lover — Howard owns rescue dogs, including Beatrice, and follows a vegan diet free of animal products — shared that Beatrice was only four months old when CAPS investigators rescued her from a South Dakota puppy mill in 2003.

Beatrice was deemed unfit for breeding by the facility due to her deformed elbows. Fast forward to 2014: Beatrice now resides in a loving, forever home and is the face of the CAPS national campaign designed to educate the public about the pet shop-puppy mill connection.

Now, Beatrice is a celebrity in her own right, with her own business cards and has taken the social media world by storm with more than 1,400 Facebook fans and over 500 connections on LinkedIn. She also has profiles on Twitter, Instagram and Pinterest, said Howard.

"She's very highly-connected," said Howard. Public service announcements (PSAs) featuring Beatrice have aired on several cable channels, including the Sundance, Cooking and Travel channels, HGTV and the Food Network.

In the ad campaign, Beatrice shares the spotlight with professional model Kiley Wirtz Jennings, who learned about CAPS after viewing the documentary.

"Kiley was so moved by the documentary that she contacted CAPS and offered to donate her time," said Howard. The model teamed up with several other models, makeup artists, wardrobe stylists, a fashion photographer, a videographer, and a group of rescue dogs to make the ad campaign possible.

Howard and Beatrice flew to Dallas-Fort Worth for the shoot. "Little did we know at the time that Beatrice would go on to be a celebrity," said Howard.

The CAPS founder and president hopes that commuters will take note of the signs.

"We encourage people to look at those signs when they're traveling to work and check out the website," said Howard. And if folks take a picture of the ad and send it to the Beatrice fan page on Facebook, they will receive a free CAPS mug featuring the puppies and models.

To become a fan of Beatrice, and submit a picture for the promotion, "like" Facebook.com/BeainPink.

50 Years of Excellence and Opportunity at UMass Boston

By J. Keith Motley, PhD, UMass Boston Chancellor

On June 16, 1964 the Massachusetts Legislature approved a bill that established the University of Massachusetts Boston. Two days later, on June 18, Governor Endicott Peabody signed the bill into law.

Fifty years later, UMass Boston remains committed to its primary responsibility: providing educational opportunities, academic excellence, and high value for students. These advantages include small classrooms led by full professors at the top of their fields and opportunities to engage in exploration and research at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

UMass Boston remains committed to its founders' mission, even though much has changed at Boston's public university over the past 50 years. Since the first 1,000 students were admitted in 1965, UMass Boston has grown into an institution of more than 16,000 students enrolled in more than 175 undergraduate, graduate, doctoral, and certificate programs in the university's 11 colleges and graduate schools.

And UMass Boston continues to broaden the opportunity it provides for a first-rate education, adding academic programs at the undergraduate and graduate levels, as well as professional development courses and programs in the College of Advancing and Professional Studies (CAPS). A newly created Honors College, for example, provides enhanced opportunities for academic achievement, and the new School for the Environment offers students a unique, interdisciplinary program with research opportunities in places such as UMass Boston's Nantucket Field Station and the New England Aquarium.

Over the years, UMass Boston has also developed a reputation for innovative research that addresses complex issues, particularly in urban settings. Our researchers study areas such as economic development, environmental affairs, developmental sciences, and health care, focusing on health disparities. UMass Boston has partnered with the Dana-Farber/Harvard Cancer Center to study health and health care disparities among underserved populations; the application for a research award from the National Institutes of Health was ranked first in the nation. Today, the university conducts more than $60 million in research activity annually and engages in hundreds of partnerships with communities and organizations across the state and around the world.

Forty years ago, UMass Boston moved from its downtown Park Square origins to a new waterfront campus on Columbia Point, Dorchester. Today the university is transforming the campus with a new Integrated Sciences Complex, opening its doors this fall; a new Edward M. Kennedy Institute for the United States Senate, opening next spring; and a new General Academic Building No. 1, scheduled to open next fall.

In addition, new roads, landscaping, and pedestrian and bike paths — along with more green space — will make UMass Boston an even more beautiful place to visit and study.

I encourage you to discover UMass Boston at www.umb.edu/discover.

OUR VIEW

Class of 2014: We wish you a hero

A pundit once suggested that commencement speakers refrain from frightening graduating seniors by telling them the world was theirs. The world as we travel through the 14th year of the 21st century is a troublesome place.

War, disease, social injustice, financial woes and poverty still tear our planet apart.

Looking over past years, we sometimes wonder if we have made progress.

The First World War was supposed to be the war that was going to make the world safe for democracy, yet in regions across the globe there are still leaders who value holding power in their own fists above the welfare of their people.

The dawning of the Age of Aquarius in the 1960s was supposed to usher in harmony, understanding, love, and peace. Well... we're not exactly there yet.

Sometimes we wonder if the world is getting better or worse.

Yet out the mire of the world's despair rise heroes.

The soldiers on the battlefield fighting for freedom.

The doctors, nurses, and scientists who strive to save us from the scourge of disease.

The teachers who open the door to tomorrow to their students.

The technology experts who make our lives safer, more interesting, and easier.

These are just some of our heroes.

As you look back on your achievements and look forward to future challenges and successes, consider the heroes who inspired you to do more than you thought you ever could.

You'll probably see that over the years your idea of heroism becomes deeper.

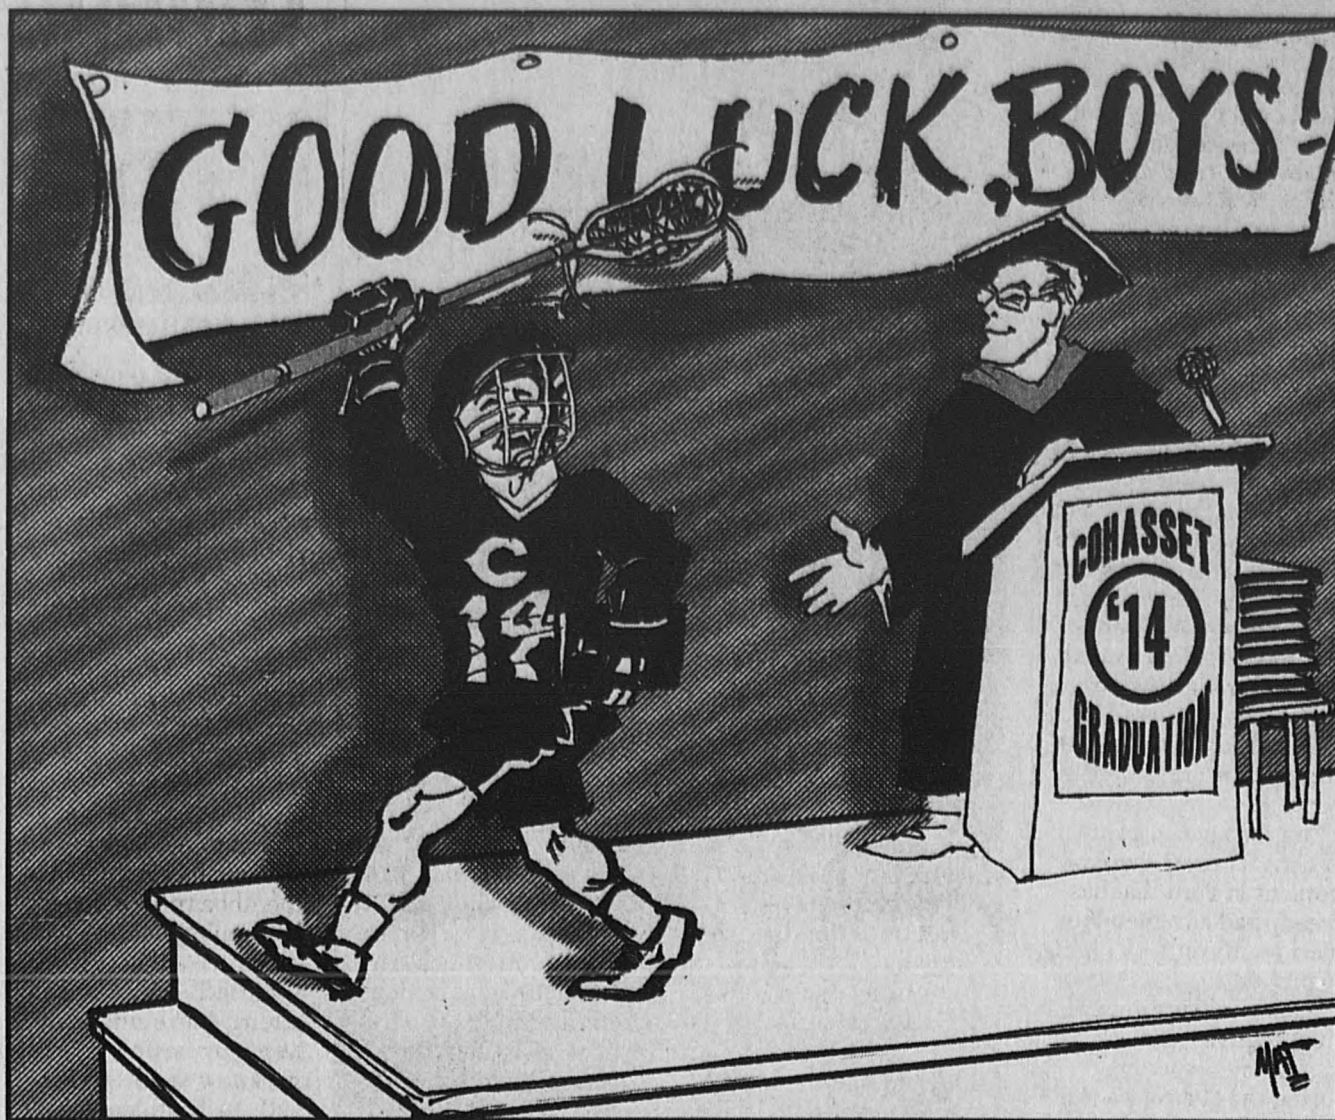

"Superman or Captain Marvel. If someone had asked me what a champion is when I was a child, I probably would have answered by naming these two superheroes of the day. During this time, I didn't realize how the kindness of a few key people could parallel the life-saving feats superheroes regularly performed... instead of muscles of steel, they protected me with the strength of their kindness," journalist Bob Danzig once wrote.

Actor, Christopher Reeve, who became a superhero to the handicapped, said: "A hero is an ordinary individual who finds the strength to persevere and endure in spite of overwhelming obstacles."

Former US Congressman and former Alabama Governor Bob Riley may have put it best: "Hard times don't create heroes. It is during the hard times when the 'hero' within us is revealed."

Class of 2014, we wish you well.

We wish you a hero.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Poppy Drive a success!

Thank you to all of the volunteers who participated in this year's Poppy Drive. The "Buddy Poppy," a small red flower symbolic of the bloodshed in World War I by millions of Allied soldiers in defense of freedom - was originally sold to provide relief for the people of war-devastated France. Since then, its sale has benefited thousands of disabled and struggling US veterans.

Success would not have been possible without the help of our volunteers, many of whom are not service connected.

Our spirited volunteers included Colonel Ed Graham, Louie Longo, Tony Muzzi, Fran and Gail Collins, Kevin McArdle, Ted and Luann Kramer, Willie Cicchese, Diane Karcher, Mary Grayken, Ken Werner, Cliff Jones, Gordon Flint, Brittany Grimes, Bill Chisholm, Joe Godzik, Gareth Thomas, Bill DeGiacomo, Lisa Nesbet, Jean Hajjar, and Paul St. John.

Special thanks to Commander Rich Hynes and his wife Mary.

Many thanks also to the local businesses that again assisted by providing space for volunteers or by collecting, including Stop & Shop, Shaw's, Curtis Liquors, Aubuchon Hardware, Cohasset Pizza House, Atlantic Bagel & Coffee, Hassan Woodcarving & Sign Co., Robbins Garage, French Memories, Pilgrim Bank, and Fiori Gulf Service Center.

A special word of gratitude goes to all the generous individuals who stopped by our tables to donate and make this year's Poppy Drive such a success.

We are doing everything we can to support our veterans. For anyone interested, additional contributions may be made to the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Post 9146, P.O. Box 437, Cohasset, MA 02025.

Thank you again to everyone for your local support.

SPEAKING FROM THE HEART

Living fully, practicing praise

JILL COWIE

Everyone should be born into this world happy and loving everything. But in truth it rarely works that way.

For myself, I have spent my life clamoring toward it. Halleluia, anyway I'm not where I started!

And have you too been trudging like that, sometimes almost forgetting how wondrous the world is and how miraculously kind some people can be?

And have you too decided that probably nothing important is ever easy?

Not, say, for the first 60 years.

Hallelujah, I'm 60 now, and even a little more, and some days I feel I have wings.

"Hallelujah," by Mary Oliver

I love how Mary Oliver clamors for praise and finds its simply in the fact she is not where she started. How sometimes miraculously kind people can help us remember how wondrous the world is, and how being kind works just as well. The Benedictine monks at the Abbey pray five times a day, opening always with a chant, "O Lord, open my mouth, so I can sing your praise." They go on to chant the Psalms, complete with the loss that comes with the absence of God, and the glory that comes with God's presence, sometimes graphically speaking of death and poetically of rebirth and joy, inviting us to live fully within these bookends of life. If you find in God a sustaining presence as I do, faith is essential in times of absence. A faith that sends me seeking a symbol of or evidence for the presence I am missing. When I find it, in beauty, in a smile, or in the expression of love I am always astonished and re-oriented.

I experienced such a moment at the hospital last week as I witnessed the love of a long-term Cohasset couple, both in their 90s, who have been married nearly 70 years and members of First Parish for at least 50 of them. Getting to the distant hospital is a challenge, and it is clear once we arrive, they treasure each moment together. I witnessed such joy in their hellos and tenderness in their good byes, such praise in the words, "I miss you." C.S. Lewis says "Praise not merely expresses, but completes the enjoyment.

It is not out of compliment that lovers keep on telling one another how beautiful they are; the delight is incomplete till it is expressed."

I invite you to take a moment and practice praise for something in your life that gives you delight, something your life would not be the complete without. Say the words out loud. The practice of praise helps to sustain our connections with ground of our being and the greater presence of love. Let us all say yes to the power of praise together.

Hallelujah,
Rev. Jill

THAYER GRADUATION SPEECH

Life-altering trip to Peru

CHARLES STEELE

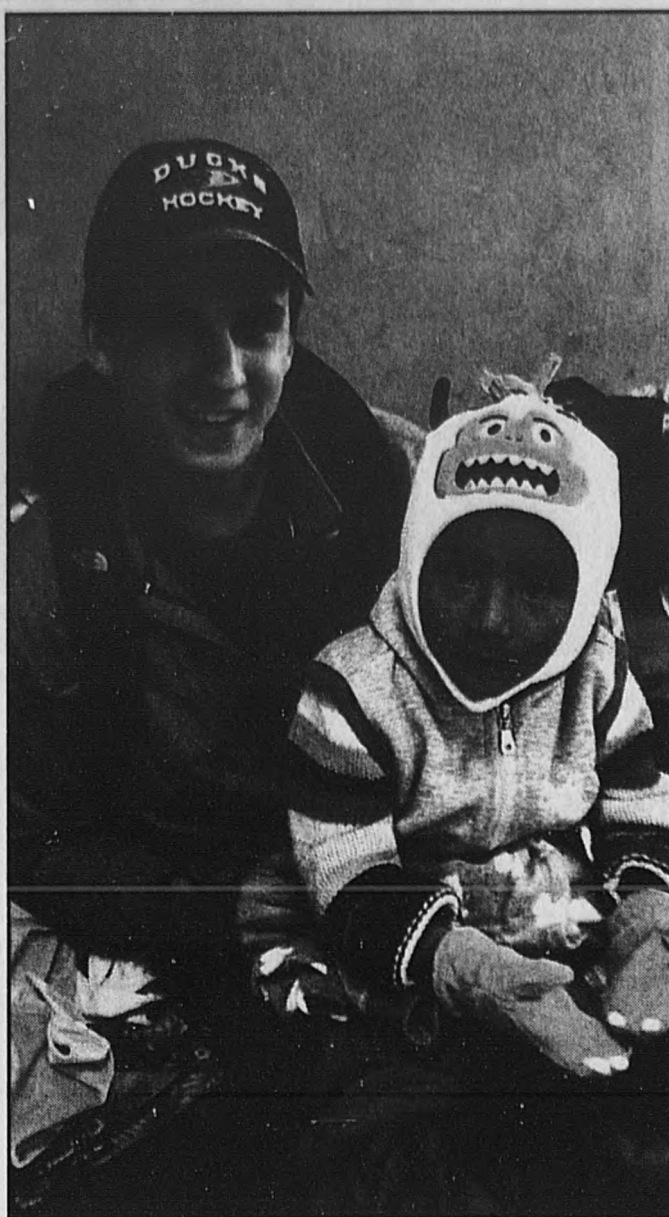

Charles Steele, a resident of Cohasset, was the Valedictorian of the class of 2014 at Thayer Academy in Braintree. Charlie had a 4.30 cumulative GPA and will be attending the University of Michigan Engineering College in the fall. Charlie delivered the following, very moving speech about his senior project trip to an orphanage in Peru at the Thayer graduation on Saturday June 7th.

During the last two weeks of May, I traveled to Peru as part of my Thayer Academy Senior Project, an opportunity for all seniors to pursue an area of interest during their last month of senior year. On this trip I visited Inca archeological sites, explored Cusco, worked in the quinoa fields of an agricultural village, and volunteered at an orphanage.

Five days ago, a group of classmates and I shared a moment in Peru that has already had a tremendous effect on my outlook on life. To properly explain the significance of this moment, I must begin by recounting some of our experiences during the 11 days leading up to it. During the second day of the trip, our group of 14 visited an orphanage in Cusco. When we arrived, we walked through the white metal gates and were immediately greeted by a crowd of excited, and boisterous children. They quickly snatched the crayons, markers, construction paper and notebooks from our hands before overwhelming us with affectionate hugs. Their energy was endless.

These children were easily entertained; they found amusement in everything from playing with the plastic clips on Bridget's backpack to trying, and mostly failing, to steal the soccer ball from Chris. As we stood on the cracked concrete of the courtyard and embraced their enjoyment of our presence, it became apparent to me that these children were not accustomed to receiving this kind of attention. Their lack of material possessions was even more obvious. After about 20 minutes, we paired up and were assigned to a mother and group of about 10 children for whom she was responsible. The kids from my group eagerly grabbed my hands and pulled me up the stairs and into their home: a small apartment with one kitchen, a cramped family room, one bathroom, and plenty of bunk beds, all for one house mother and ten kids.

Over the next two hours, I served as an expert artist as well as a human canvas; good thing the markers we used were washable. I drew everything from cats to Christmas trees to houses; and the children eagerly copied my every sketch as if I were the master of crayon art. My classmates and I returned to the orphanage two more times, and with each trip we grew closer with the children in our respective houses. One day, as we sat in the grass, picnicking with the children and mothers, Nolan made a remark that summed up the opinion of our entire group: "I don't know how I am going to leave these kids." Me neither. Having learned that Daniel, a three-year-old boy in my group, had been found wandering the street by himself only five days before we arrived, I knew that leaving the orphanage would be extremely depressing. My classmates and I found it incomprehensible how one could even think about abandoning a young, helpless toddler.

On our last day in Peru, we made our final visit to the orphanage. As we played with the children in the courtyard, our travel van pulled up behind the white fence. When Mayeli, a 4-year-old girl, asked me, "¿Cuándo vas a regresar?" or "When will you return", I found it extremely difficult to give her an answer. We said our goodbyes, and drove away; the sight of countless children crowded against the cold metal gates waving to us as we departed is permanently ingrained in my memory. Overwhelming. The silent van became a place for reflection. I thought about what our departure meant for the children, and what it meant for us. We would return to our wonderful lives back in the United States, where we had families, houses, cars, and too many possessions. The children would remain at the orphanage without any of these. "Why?" I thought to myself. Over the next few hours, I pondered this question and eventually came to a simple conclusion: we are lucky.

What I took away from this experience, and what I hope that everyone can take from hearing about it is that life is random. Mr. Diamond has a profound understanding of this idea. Think about it. His annual visits to the orphanage are an attempt to shape what is random and unfair into something slightly more just. I realize now that we take so much in life for granted. I have gained a deeper appreciation for my family, friends, school, and possessions; and I will always keep in the back of my mind the orphans' pleasure from our presence, gratefulness for our donations, and positive energy despite their adverse circumstances. But regarding our fortunate circumstances, I believe in what John F. Kennedy once said, "To whom much is given, much is expected."

We all should think about taking the time to reach out to those who are not so lucky. I will always remember the sense of fulfillment I gained from seeing how overjoyed the orphans were by our presence and by our donations. The joy on their faces as they opened the bags of used clothes could be compared to the look of a child on Christmas morning. While I enjoyed seeing their excitement and gratitude, I began to wonder, why is their reaction to receiving our second hand items comparable to our reaction to receiving brand new gifts? Do we deserve any better than what they do? I feel an obligation to try to reduce the difference between our quality of life and theirs. One need not travel to another continent to fulfill this sense of obligation. As Dagobert D. Runes once stated, "People travel to faraway places to watch in fascination the kind of people they ignore at home." Our community is full of people who would benefit greatly from our reaching out.

I am grateful to Thayer Academy for providing me with such a life altering experience. It has made me aware, as cliché as this might sound, that sometimes the best way to learn about yourself is to take risks and step out of your comfort zone. As I recollect the image of our van departing the orphanage while the children waved goodbye with their bodies pressed against the gates, I came to a realization. A realization that the wisdom I gained from this moment is a result of my trying something new. In the United States many of us live narrow lives; so when you go to college, broaden your horizon. Open yourself up to new experiences; when presented with the opportunity to try something different, don't think twice. In the words of Ralph Waldo Emerson, "Don't be too timid and squeamish about your actions. All life is an experiment. The more experiments you make the better."

Sweeping a few thoughts off the porch

JOHN MCSHEFFREY

This week I thought I'd share a few pollen covered tidbits with you; hopefully, they're nothing to sneeze at. Get it? Pollen, sneeze at? I am kicking this off with first class humor folks, let's hope I can sustain it ..... (Oh boy)

• Seriously, how can you not smile when you first see the Music Circus tent up, a sure sign that summer is here. It seems to be a bit of an abbreviated schedule but I want to see Robert Cray and one has to think that the Abba tribute show will be a ton of fun.

• The Tyabetics are going strong. We're still working to put up posters to let people know about the July 12th Jr. Triathlon. Free T-shirts and the chance to win a number of prizes for all the kids who join the team.

• A huge thank you to everyone who has reached out since my last article, especially the Keenan family and the Cohasset Candy Store. Its businesses like the Cohasset Candy Store that makes a town a community.

• Coincidentally, Tyler's softball team is sponsored by the Cohasset Candy Store. Its businesses like the Cohasset Candy Store that makes a town a community.

• Did you get a chance to read the letter in the Mariner a few weeks back from Paul Lualdi regarding the sewer fees in and around Little Harbor? His point of being fair to those who paid for the sewer construction seemed very reasonable to me.

• To the nice woman who stopped me at CVS last month to compliment my articles, thank you very much. I was a bit preoccupied and I hope I properly conveyed my appreciation.

• To the kids who screeched around the corner in front my house last Saturday, the only thing that that kept you from a lifetime of regret was five minutes. Five minutes earlier the spot that you worked to regain control of your car was full of young kids.

• Father's Day is this weekend; I know an awful lot of great Dads in town.

• About a year and a half ago, long time Cohasset resident Bud Howorth passed away. Bud was a kind quiet gentleman who we had the privilege of living next door to. A few years back he shared with me that during World War II he'd landed on the beaches of Normandy but beyond that he didn't want to talk about it. Last week was the 70th anniversary of D-day and I thought a lot about what Bud and his peers must have endured. Bud Howorth was a hero and we owe him and his entire generation a debt of gratitude. Thank you Bud.

• While on the subject of remembering special neighbors, last November my 'girlfriend' who lived across the street passed away. Claire O'Brien was 93 and she could brighten up anyone's day. I was always incredibly impressed on how well my wife contained her jealousy when I'd go over to visit. Sometime in the next few months, Claire's daughters will put their home up for sale. I'll miss them as much as I miss Claire.

• Have you been to visit the new ice cream stand at the Honstra Farms barn in Norwell? A great experience. My kids suggest you try the Oreos ice cream but you can't go wrong with the Coffee Heath Bar.

• On a gorgeous Saturday last month, 37 percent of Cohasset's residents turned out to cast their vote in the town election. That's twice the percentage of voters a week earlier for the Selectman's race in Hingham. Well done Cohasset.

• The turnout and the results speak for themselves.

• I guarantee there is no one in town is more anti-gun than I, but I found the whole brouhaha over the editorial comic a few weeks ago silly at best. To be upset about a cartoon set in the Wild West is on par with not wanting your kids to watch Star Wars because they're shooting laser guns. Now if the cartoon depicted Jar Jar Binks, I'd understand the anger.

• Baseball, lacrosse or soccer; you know what spring sport is better? The answer is simple; the one your child enjoys playing.

• This season my son has been playing baseball over at the Beechwood Field. While it's fun to see the kids playing on a bigger field I miss the camaraderie over at the Barnes / Chase fields.

• Speaking of baseball, a special thanks for NESN for keeping Jerry Remy in the booth. As I wrote a few months back, I'm taking a pass on watching the Sox as long as Remy is in the booth and given how poorly the defending champs are playing, I'm not missing much.

Remy must have been proud seeing his son's new neo-nazi tattoo as he plead guilty to murder. Glad I'm not selling NESN advertising.

• I receive all sorts of emails or Facebook comments from various folks. One person in particular who'd chime in with a supporting comment from time to time was Alison Callahan. I never met Alison, but her comments were always appreciated. Earlier this week, Alison lost her battle with cancer. Please allow me to extend my sincerest and warmest thoughts and wishes to her family.

• There are some really special people throughout town battling different forms of cancer - some battles are pretty serious. If you know someone, take the time to drop them a note, pick up the phone or reach out and offer to help with a task. A simple gesture means so much.

• Two businesses you have to check out in the Old Colony Square Plaza. The Work Station is amazing; a professional and relaxed place to get out of the house to get work done. The Olympus Grille is a pleasant addition to Cohasset's food scene. Steve and Mike at Olympus are extremely nice and the kids really like their pizza while I'm a fan of the kabobs and humus.

• Did anyone notice that in April Cohasset Imports on Rt. 3A had a DeLorean on the lot? I can't but help wonder if it came with a flux capacitor or if that was extra.

• Best of luck to the graduating class, especially Christopher Lund who's promised me that he'll come back from college to help me with the driveway when it snows.

• The other night when I had to do the middle of the night blood test for my sleeping daughter there was a note next to her asking me not to prick certain fingers that were hurting her from all the needles. No child should have to go to bed with that concern.

• Drop me an email if you'd like a 'Tyabetics' wristband. We're aiming for 25 kids to join the team and to raise $5,000. We'd be honored to have your support - simply Google "Tyabetics" to learn how.

As always, thanks for reading.

CAMPAIGN VIEW

For Democrats, next stop Worcester

RICK HOLMES

This weekend, the Democrats' campaigns move out of the living rooms of insiders and activists, and into the attention of ordinary voters. At least they hope so.

For more than a year, the five Democrats running for governor have been pitching their candidacies to a small sliver of the electorate: Democrats likely to come out to the party caucuses in February and early March. They've had coffee and wine with Democratic Town Committee members from Williamstown to Wellfleet; they've had intimate chats with state reps, union leaders and people who hold no office but are considered influential.

All those private, small-group auditions, and the organization-building that goes with them, were aimed at getting delegates committed in the caucuses. From there, the candidates' target audience gets narrowed even further, to a few thousand uncommitted delegates.

If you are one of those delegates, you probably can name all five candidates for governor. You've probably chatted with each, at least once. If you're an ordinary voter, you're probably able to name Attorney General Martha Coakley, and maybe Treasurer Steve Grossman. As for the other three... hmmm. Can you give me a clue?

For the record, they are Juliette Kayyem, Don Berwick and Joe Avellone.

The beauty of the living room process is that lesser known, underfunded candidates like these can build support one conversation at a time, through charisma, ideological purity and grassroots organization. That's how DeVal Patrick, nearly unknown when he first announced for governor, blew away the competition in the 2006 caucuses and convention.

That appears not to have happened this time around. Kayyem's personal energy has impressed some Democrats. Berwick has appealed to some on ideological grounds, loudly backing single-payer health care and opposing casinos. Avellone's economic development message is better geared toward a general election campaign, though he's tried to make inroads in the state's struggling "gateway cities."

But there's been no great wave of grassroots enthusiasm for anyone coming out of the caucuses, so the speculation going into this weekend's convention in Worcester is a familiar numbers game: Which of the five will get the 15 percent of delegates required for a spot on the primary ballot?

Grossman, who most concede won the organizational test of the caucuses, and Coakley are considered a lock. If one or more of the second-tier candidates makes 15 percent, expect lots of talk about games and strategy. Did Grossman or Coakley throw some of their delegates to an opponent to get another candidate on the ballot? Which of the frontrunners will be helped or hurt by a larger field? Since the mayor of Boston is traditionally the kingmaker in Democratic state politics, what role will Marty Walsh play in this drama?

That political thicket surrounds the governor's race. Even further removed from the public's gaze are the campaigns and maneuvers for other races between Democrats: Two strong candidates for attorney general will make it to the primary, but it's likely that one or more of the four running for lieutenant governor and the three running for treasurer won't survive Worcester.

Whether any candidate gets a post-convention bounce will also be a topic of speculation, but there will be no conclusive answers until a larger subset of the electorate — registered Democrats — votes in the September primary.

Not everyone is thrilled with this process. "There's a million Democrats out there who are going to be very disaffected if they don't have candidates that offer more than the spectrum of maybe two insiders that have been running for a decade," Avellone complained at a debate last week, which doesn't sound like he's expecting to make it to the next round.

The long road to Election Day — from living rooms, to caucus rooms, to the convention floor, a summer of campaigning and a primary that produces candidates with a large advantage going into the general election — may not be the most (small-d) democratic. It empowers incumbents, insiders and activists, leaving independent centrist voters out of the process until the final act. But for (big-d) Democrats, who've dominated the state for generations, it seems to work.

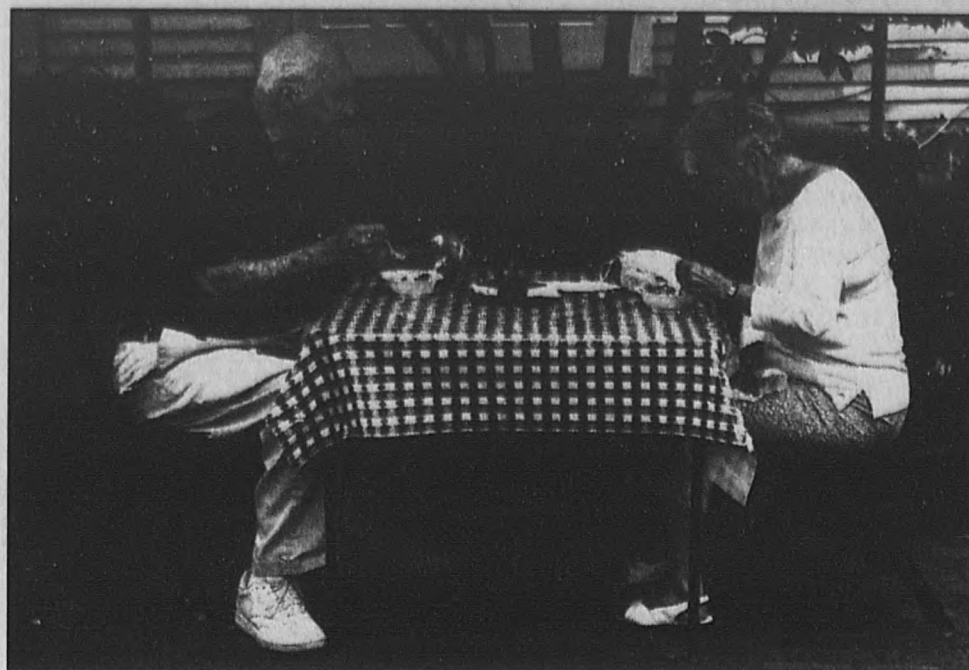

Now, a promotional note: This week, we are launching MassPoliticalNews.com, a collaboration of more than 100 Massachusetts newspapers owned and managed by GateHouse Media New England. This project features a website that will bring together campaign coverage from newspapers across eastern Massachusetts, along with information voters need and opinions written by journalists, candidates and readers from across the political spectrum — including this weekly campaign view column.

We hope you'll join us for the long ride down the campaign trail.

Report No. 23

June 2-6, 2014

Senator Robert L. Hedlund (R-Weymouth) 617-722-1646 Room 313C

Representative Garrett J. Bradley (D-Hingham) 617-722-2520 Room 479

THE HOUSE AND SENATE: Beacon Hill Roll Call records the votes of local representatives and senators on two roll calls, one in each chamber, from the week of June 2-6.

$1.74 BILLION ENVIRONMENTAL BOND BILL (H 4128)

House 138-5, approved and sent to the Senate a $1.74 billion environmental bond package allowing the state to borrow funds to finance various environmental projects. The House during floor debate added an estimated $186 million in extra spending, mostly for projects in individual districts. The measure includes dozens of earmarks costing hundreds of millions of dollars proposed by individual representatives and designed to fund projects in their districts. The projects are actually more of a "wish list": The Patrick administration is required to adhere to the state's annual bond borrowing cap and ultimately decides which projects are affordable and actually get funded.

Supporters said this landmark environmental legislation package is a fiscally responsible one which will help the state and local communities improve the environment. They argued it is fair and balanced and provides for important projects in all parts of the state.

Opponents said the package, pushed by the Democratic leadership, is loaded with unnecessary spending, particularly in districts where Democratic legislators have Republican challengers in November. Others said the state already has the highest debt per capita in the nation and argued more borrowing will devastate our children's already debt-ridden future.

(A "Yes" vote is for the bill. A "No" vote is against it.)

AMBER ALERT (S 2173)

Senate 38-0, approved and sent to the House a bill designed to improve and enhance the state's Amber Alert System that helps recover abducted children by interrupting regular radio and TV programming to broadcast information that could help recover the child. Information is also broadcast on electronic signs along highways, in airports and on cell phones.

Provisions include codifying the entire Amber Alert System into law; requiring more descriptive information in the missing child database including identifying marks, prosthetics or surgical implants, photographs, description of clothing, items that may be with the missing child and his or her means of transportation; allowing the State Police to coordinate with law enforcement agencies in other states; and establishing training guidelines for 911 operators.

Supporters said this important bill would enhance the state's invaluable Amber Alert System. They noted since its inception in the Bay State in 2002, the alert has been activated 15 times and successfully recovered and reunited 23 children with their families.

(A "Yes" vote is for the bill.)

ALSO UP ON BEACON HILL

STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS FOR SEX CRIMES AGAINST CHILDREN (H 4126) - The House gave initial approval to a bill increasing the statute of limitations during which a person can file a civil suit for child sexual abuse. Current law allows victims to file a suit up until the age of 21 while the bill would increase the age to 53. The extension is retroactive for claims against actual perpetrators of abuse and prospective for others with indirect liability like supervisors.

Supporters said that many children who are victims of sexual abuse are not emotionally ready to confront the situation until many years later. They argued that current law is unfair and allows many sexual predators to get away with their crimes.

Opponents said that the bill goes too far because evidence and memories are often hazy, unclear and unreliable after many years. They argued that the bill would result in many people being wrongly convicted.

DEER HUNTING (H 4114) - The House approved and sent to the Senate a bill that would allow deer hunting on Sundays with a bow and arrow. Current law bans any hunting on Sundays.

Supporters said it is time to abolish this puritanical ban and stop Bay State hunters from traveling to and spending money in neighboring states where Sunday hunting is legal.

Opponents said an additional day of hunting is inhumane to animals and dangerous for people who want to take nature walks and enjoy the wildlife on Sundays, when many are not at work.

They cited a poll showing that 86 percent of Bay State residents support this restriction.

The House also rejected an amendment that would give local cities and towns the option to opt out of the law and ban Sunday hunting.

BURIAL BENEFITS (H 3766) - The House approved and sent to the Senate a bill changing the current law that provides $4,000 for the burial of a person who dies as a result of an injury on the job under the Workers' Compensation Act. The bill would increase the amount to "eight times the state's average weekly wage." That wage is currently $1,181.28 so the present benefit would be $9,450.24.

Supporters said $4,000 is insufficient and noted the amount hasn't been raised since a hike from $2,000 to $4,000 in 1992. They argued that the average cost of a funeral has doubled in those 22 years and that tying it to average wages in the state will ensure the amount keeps up with the economy.

ABANDONED BABIES (H 138) - The House gave initial approval to a bill that would allow newborns under the age of seven days to be surrendered to 911 emergency responders. The 2004 law currently allows parents to leave their baby under the age of seven days at a police or fire station or hospital emergency room.

Supporters said that adding 911 responders would save more lives and give young, scared mothers another option instead of unsafe abandonment and even death of the baby.

REQUIRE AUDIO RECORDING WHEN USING TASER GUNS (H 3315) - The Committee on Public Safety and Homeland Security has recommended approval of a local option bill that would require that all newly purchased taser guns used by police officers be outfitted with an audio recorder. The proposal would only take effect in cities or towns that approve it. It would also "grandfather in" existing taser guns already owned by the city or town.

Supporters said this will ensure there is an audio recording when a taser gun is used so there won't be any questions about what was said by the police officer or the person who is tased.

NO PICTURES BY FIRST RESPONDERS (H 4040) - The House gave initial approval to a bill that would prohibit police officers, firefighters, paramedics and other first responders from photographing victims at crime and accident scenes or forwarding such photos to others. The only exceptions would be if it is done in the performance of official duties or upon the consent of the victim or, if the victim is unable to consent, an immediate family member.

Supporters said the bill will protect the privacy of victims in this digital age.

TOBACCO

from stores with pharmacies, such as CVS, Walgreens and Stop & Shop, as well as smaller, independent stores. Zemel said he reached out to local "mom and pop" store owners, one of whom did not wish to speak on record but indicated that he was opposed to the ban, as it would hurt his businesses. One said that he was OK with the new restrictions as long as they were also adopted by neighboring towns, so as not to lose his customers.

The new regulations, including the pharmacy ban, will be effective January 1, 2015.

The new regulations also restrict the sale of e-cigarettes; currently, customers of any age can purchase them in Cohasset, but under the new regulations the purchasing age will be 18. The health board also passed regulations prohibiting smoking in workplaces and public places.

Copies of the regulation are available at the Cohasset Board of Health office in both hard copy and electronic formats. Additionally, a hard copy is available for viewing at the Cohasset Permits and Inspections Department and Town Clerk's office during normal business hours.

Food regulations

The board also voted unanimously to adopt the 2013 FDA Model Food Code, changing over from 1999 regulations (see sidebar). According to the health agent, Cohasset is the first municipality in the state to adopt these, although towns like Newton have adopted regulations from 2009.

"Currently [most of] the state utilizes the 1999 food code," said Zemel. "Cohasset is the first board of health in Massachusetts to adopt these" new regulations, he added.

The board of health will hold a public forum on the topic on Tuesday, June 24 at 5 p.m. in the downstairs meeting room of Cohasset Town Hall (41 Highland Ave.).

Email reporter Erin Dale at edale@wickedlocal.com or follow on Twitter @ErinDaleMariner.

Tobacco restrictions

The Board of Health adopted tobacco regulations that restrict the sale of tobacco and nicotine delivery products, effective January 1, 2015. Restrictions include: 1) regulation of nicotine delivery products the same as tobacco products; 2) regulation of cigar package size and pricing; 3) prohibition of the sale and distribution of blunt wraps; 4) prohibition of the sale of tobacco and nicotine delivery products at health care institutions (i.e., pharmacies) and educational institutions; and 5) enhanced signage requirements.

Board of Health adopts 2013 food code

The Cohasset Board of Health has unanimously an update to the Town's food regulations, bringing them up to the standards set out in the most recent US FDA Model Food Code. The new Cohasset Food Regulations will make Cohasset the first community in Massachusetts to accept the 2013 FDA Food Code.

The purpose of this regulation is to protect the health of the residents and general public in the Town of Cohasset. An expanded statement of purpose is available for the public viewing at the Cohasset Board of Health, Permits & Inspections Department, and Town Clerk's offices. The authority for these regulations is granted to Boards of Health by MGL Chapter 111, Section 31.

These regulations, which will become effective July 1, 2014, adopt the 2013 edition of the FDA Model Food Code. Currently, the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Regulations utilizes the 1999 FDA Food Code. The newer code, which was developed through collaboration between industry, government regulators, academia, and consumers, incorporates the most current scientific knowledge and industry practices in order to create a comprehensive, fair food safety standard.

According to the U.S. Food & Drug Administration, the "benefits associated with complete and widespread adoption of the 2013 Food Code as statutes, codes and ordinances include:

- Reduction of the risk of food-borne illnesses within food establishments, thus protecting consumers and industry from potentially devastating health consequences and financial losses.
- Uniform standards for retail food safety that reduce complexity and better ensure compliance.
- The elimination of redundant processes for establishing food safety criteria.
- The establishment of a more standardized approach to inspections and audits of food establishments."

Copies of the regulation are available at the Cohasset Board of Health office in both hard copy and electronic formats. Additionally, a hard copy is available for viewing at the Cohasset Permits and Inspections Department and Town Clerk's office during normal business hours.

In order to prepare for the implementation of the new regulations, the Cohasset Board of Health will be hosting a public forum on Tuesday, June 24 at 5 p.m. in the Basement Meeting Room of Cohasset Town Hall, 41 Highland Ave. All interested parties (which includes: general public, businesses, and professional associations) are invited to meet with representatives of the Cohasset Board of Health in order to discuss the relevant changes, and how this affects the practice of food safety in the Town of Cohasset.

Skippers headed to State Finals

Laxmen edge Hamilton-Wenham in semifinal

By Dick Trust
For the Patriot Ledger

Coach James Beaudoin challenges his Cohasset High boys lacrosse players, even during timeouts.

"How bad do you want it?" he barked at the Skippers while in a late-game huddle Wednesday night. "How bad do you want it?"

"Bad" enough that they blanked Hamilton-Wenham in the fourth quarter while scoring twice themselves for a 10-6 victory in the Division 3 state semifinal at Woburn High.

Bad enough that now the South Sectional champion Skippers (19-4) are headed for the Div. 3 state final against Dover-Sherborn at 7 p.m. Saturday at Boston University.

Will Golden's (center) five goals help propel the Skippers to a 13-7 win over Archbishop Williams in the Division 3 South final at Archbishop Williams on Saturday. STAFF PHOTO/ROBIN CHAN

Bad enough that sophomore midfielder/attack Danny Axelson scored three goals Wednesday and junior attack Jeff Powers exploded for four goals and two assists in helping to extend the season,

"I want to go all the way and win the state championship," is how bad Axelson wants it now.

A win by Cohasset on Saturday would mark its first state title since 2010, when the Skippers topped Norwell, 10-7, in the Div. 3 championship finale.

To do so would mean a reversal from last year, when Dover-Sherborn won its second straight crown — beating Cohasset, no less, 12-10.

The Cohasset girls golf team finished out its first season as a varsity team with a 5-13 record, but more importantly, they had a lot of fun and learned what it takes to be a competitive team.

Nobody was expecting this particular team, made up of eighth graders and freshmen to win a league title. The goal was to learn, enjoy the game and build for the future.

"For freshman and eighth graders we did great," said coach Nikki Cusenbender. "Other coaches were impressed with how we hung in and battled."

The girls were led by Emily Moy, who played in the No. 1 and No. 2 spots in the

Boys win Sectional Finals, advance to State Semis

By Matthew MacCormack
For the Cohasset Mariner

Fresh off capturing the program's first ever South Sectional Championship, the Cohasset boys' tennis team rolled into their match on Monday afternoon confident and ready to go. All that stood between the Skippers and their first ever trip to the State Championship was the Weston Wildcats, a squad that had just conquered the North Section of the Division 3 bracket.

The stage was set, with Lexington High School providing the neutral-site battlefield necessary for high-stakes MIAA contests. Fans and spectators from both sides lined the chain-link fences that hugged the pollen-dusted courts. A moderate zephyr blew horizontally across the courts as occasional spurts of precipitation navigated their way down from a grey, cloud-laden sky.

Unfortunately, things didn't brighten up for the Skippers.

As difficult as it is to say, the boys were overmatched on Monday. The Skippers' tennis maestros simply collided with the tenacious buzz saw that is Weston, a program that has won the North bracket for the past five seasons.

The Wildcats took all five matches in straight sets, polishing off a Skipper unit that was far from accustomed to

Boys survive early surge in Sectional Final victory

By William Wassersug

Will Golden scored five goals and his Skipper teammates never panicked after falling behind 5-1 in the early going of Saturday's MIAA Div. 3 South Sectional Championship game at Archbishop Williams.

The Skippers found themselves trailing 5-1 early in the second quarter before a pair of quick goals by Danny Axelson and Golden brought Cohasset back into range. Jimmy Farren followed with another Skipper score with 4:28 left in the first half and Cohasset was right back in and on the way to a 13-7 win at Brainerd's Memorial Field.

Jeff Powers added the tying goal on a feed from Colin Whelan to tie the game before Golden struck again to give the Skippers a 6-5 advantage.

Archbishop Williams came into the game with the No. 1 seed and a 22-1 record including playoffs, while Cohasset was No. 2 with a 17-4 mark (now 19-4 with their playoff wins over A-W and Hamilton-Wenham). After the initial barrage, Cohasset looked like the better team, outscoring A-W 12-2 the rest of the way.

"We knew their game-plan and they were doing it," Cohasset coach James Beaudoin said of the start of the game. "That was the issue. They were executing on us and we weren't playing to our ability yet. I think the kids underestimated the talent that was on their side."

Beaudoin credited his team for battling and using the resources provided for them all season.

"Our kids are smart, we have a great coaching staff that knew what we wanted to do," he said. "We calmed down, got the jitters out and ran the game plan."

The final Archbishop Williams goal came in the last minutes.

The biggest key to victory, however, was when the Skippers killed a three-minute penalty without allowing a goal in the third quarter.

Cohasset led 10-6 at the start of the penalty.

"That was huge. The potential was there. Three minutes was locked in," Beaudoin said. "With their attack that could have been 15 goals. It was huge for our kids. They were very smart. Played it well."

Beaudoin said the win felt good, but the chase wasn't over.

"There's a lot for us to work on," he said. "We can get a lot better. You never know what's coming. There's a kid who's coming out west with 120 goals."

The Skippers won't face that hurdle, as that particular opponent (Mt. Greylock) was eliminated, but Cohasset is prepared for anyone that comes along.

"We had the harder road probably than any other sectionals," Beaudoin said. "It was tough. We had Archies, Hanover and Norwell in the final four."

The South had 14 teams, while Div. 2 had 10 teams, but only one with 15 wins (Hingham).

Division 1, was also tough with 17 teams.

No. 1 seeded Duxbury won that Sectional, giving the South Shore a sweep into the State Finals.

Cohasset, Duxbury and Hingham all won out and also won their State Semifinal games to qualify for Saturday's festivities at Boston University.

GPS Massachusetts Crusaders Elite U14 Boys took first place in Lancaster, Mass. at the Mass Youth Soccer Home Complex's Citizens Bank Fields.

This weekend was filled with miraculous back-to-back comebacks from the GPS Massachusetts Crusaders Elite boys team. On Saturday, May 31 in the semifinals, the GPS Crusaders were down early in the first half against the CSU from Plymouth. A penalty kick made it 1-0 very early in the game. GPS Massachusetts Crusaders Elite never gave up, fighting until the end. With less than five minutes left to the game, Chukwuma Onyejose (East Greenwich, R.I.) scored two goals to help the GPS Massachusetts Crusaders leap to a victory 2-1, heading to the state championship.

The title match, held a day later, was nine months in the making. Nine months earlier, the GPS Massachusetts Crusaders Elite matched up with the Scorpions SC Boston and lost in a very intense showdown. Nine months later, the season is coming to a close with the best of the best matching up once again.

Scorpions SC Boston came into the state finals ranked No. 1 in Massachusetts, 22nd in Region 1, and 29th nationally. The GPS Massachusetts Crusaders Elite were ranked No. 3 in Massachusetts, 46th in Region 1, and 77th nationally.

It was 0-0 heading into the second half. Scorpions SC Boston took a hold of the strength and size and pushed its way into a goal. Within minutes, co-captain Andrew Stevens (Marshfield) took a free kick almost from the half. The ball was perfect, and Max Horowitz (Somerset) took advantage of it and scored, making it a 1-1 game, now forcing an overtime. The GPS Massachusetts Crusaders Elite pig piled in the net celebrating this goal. Stevens was named MVP of the state tournament.

The GPS Massachusetts Crusaders Elite took advantage of its momentum, and in overtime, Onyejose scored the winning goal, thus making the GPS Massachusetts Crusaders Elite No. 1 in the state. They boys will represent the Massachusetts U14 bracket in the U.S. Region 1 Championship Tournament at the University of Rhode Island at the end of June. The U.S. Regional Tournament will feature 15 states in the Northeast, will battling to claim the Region 1 title, and then advancing to U.S. nationals in July.

She'll return next year.

"Emily has been working on her game," Custenborder said. "She plans to play tournaments on the Cape this summer. She'll be a captain next year. She'll be a freshman. Right now she averages in the high 40's."

Kylie Crough has played No. 1 and No. 2 as well.

"Kylie is a great athlete," Custenborder said. "She can really hang. If she keeps playing, she can get into the low 40's."

Katie McKeon will be a sophomore next year.

"Katie McKeon will be a captain," Custenborder said. "She's a great team leader. Her golf game is decent and the girls really look up to her."

For Custenborder, the biggest sense of pride was in how opponents spoke of her team.

"The feedback from everyone was great," she said. "Other coaches told us how they were impressed with how they grew. My goal is to teach them to have fun, respect the course and the game and respect other players. They did a great job. Everybody won at least one match, and it was great to see their faces when they came in."

For next year, Custenborder has high hopes.

"We only need five more wins to qualify for States," she said. "That would be a good goal."

Further, Central/East champ Dover-Sherborn (18-3) is making its fourth consecutive state championship game appearance - but Cohasset is determined to dethrone the king.

That conjures up another Beaudoin-ism in the huddle, late in the third quarter:

"I know you're tired, but we've got only 15 minutes left. Make the most of them."

Said Axelson, "This season we've been trying to give our all for the (11) seniors, make a lasting memory for them, go hard for the last 15 minutes, close it out and we get the 'W'."

"I thought we played very well as a team and weren't selfish, which helped us in the long run."

"Our defense did well and our goalie, (senior) Jack Conte (12 saves), has been playing well all season. They've all been playing well as a unit. The seniors keep the team in line with their great leadership and we feed off the energy."

Complementing the scoring by Powers and Axelson were two goals and one assist by senior captain and All-America attack Colin Whelan and one goal by senior captain and middle Cole Kissick.

Cohasset might have racked up more scoring, but H-W senior goalie and captain Grant Thompson made some spectacular saves among the 17 with which he was credited.

"We came together at the end," said Powers, who added that Beaudoin gets the Skippers "fired up" in every timeout.

"We work so hard and (Beaudoin) works hard. We all put in the time and effort."

Cohasset beat D-S, 12-5, earlier this season, so each side is talking the 'R' word - revenge.

"Yeah, we lost the title game last year and we beat them already this year, so we both want revenge," Powers said.

"We want it really bad. We want to bring home some hardware. Saturday morning is graduation day. So the seniors will graduate and hopefully we'll win the state championship and be riding home with the trophy."

The Skippers beat North Sectional champion Hamilton-Wenham, 14-3, in this season's opener for both teams, but Beaudoin said, "This was a better Generals team than we played early in the season. Hats off to them. They gave us a fight."

Senior midfielder and captain Matt Curran led H-W with three goals, junior attack Jake Stahlman netted a pair, and freshman middle Joe Lattanzi struck twice. Otherwise, Conte stood tall when tested.

"I'm really happy to be with these guys for three more days," Beaudoin said. "It's been a great unit and to get three more days is all I wanted."

As for D-S, BostonLax.net's Bruce Lerch has seen Dover-Sherborn several times since the early season meeting and said they will be a force.

"Oh yeah, several times," he answered in a tweet asking if he's seen them since the Cohasset match. "Not the same team from earlier in the year."

He had praise for Cohasset as well.

"Have to love Cohasset's super tough and even more aggressive defense. Those guys don't let up on anyone. Could be one for the ages Saturday."

TENNIS

defeat. Junior Miles Morin, who plays first singles for Cohasset, battled nobly, but was thwarted by Weston's Ethan Chen 6-2, 6-2. Doug Fitzgerald, the senior captain who mans the second singles post for Cohasset, fell by the same score to Lenland Ke of Weston. Third singles produced similar results, as Skipper sophomore Sam Pitts fell 6-1 in the first set to Adam Regent of the Wildcats, before putting up a valiant effort in his 6-3 second set loss.

The doubles teams unfortunately weren't able to help the Cohasset cause either.

The first doubles duo of senior captain Eric Weinstein and junior Danny Surkovic mustered arguably the most competitive outing for the team, dropping the first set 6-2, then losing a gritty second set 6-4 to Harry Teplow and Alec Reen of Weston. Senior Nathan Bumstead and sophomore Jackson Dutton weren't able to reverse the Skippers' luck, as Weston's Jack Fleckmen and Will Talcott won 6-2, 6-3 in the second doubles match.

The results were analogous to a swift punch in the diaphragm. Cohasset didn't go in over-confident, with co-Head Coach Dr. Ann "Doc T" Thomae referring to the team as "the underdogs" before any tennis was played. But a Cohasset lineup that compiled a regular season mark of 16-2 and had just steamrolled over Old Rochester, Martha's Vineyard, and Pope John Paul II certainly didn't seem to be overmatched on paper against a Weston team that had garnered No. 5 seed in the North bracket.

But, the truth is, matches are played on concrete courts, and not on thin 8 1/2 x 11 sheets. It wasn't as if the Skippers underachieved; they just faced a team that, across the board, had them by a proverbial hair. These were the thoughts echoed by the two Cohasset head coaches, Thomae and Mr. Chris Luvisi, both Cohasset teachers. Moments before the match, the two were notified that they had been named co-Head Coaches of the Year for Division 3 Tennis by the Boston Globe, and their leadership was on full display throughout the match.

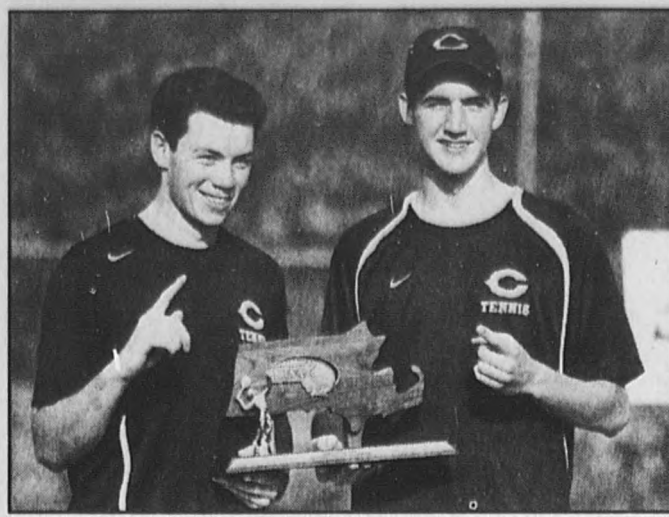

"[Weston is] an incredibly deep team," said Luvisi in a post-match interview. "They had an arsenal that our players really hadn't seen this year. They had first serves with spin that we weren't used to, and they didn't really make mistakes up at the net...When you go against [a team] like that, you gotta be perfect, and we really just weren't perfect."

Doc T felt similarly of the match, adding, "everybody left it all out on the court, so you have to be proud of that."

After the Skippers shook hands and had a few brief moments to let reality sink in, the coaches huddled the team together for one last pep talk. "I couldn't be more proud of the way you guys battled today," Luvisi told his team. And as evidenced by the smiles and lack of tears on the faces of the Skipper soldiers, it was clear that the boys felt pretty darn proud of how they fought all season long.

And, as the spring sports

season represents the last hurrah for Cohasset's seniors, particular praise was thrust upon Eric Weinstein and Doug Fitzgerald, the two senior captains who have started for their entire high school careers. Luvisi referred to Weinstein and Fitzgerald as "the gold standard of senior captain leadership," and teammates feel similarly.

"[Doug and Eric] really set a standard this year for how to lead a team," said senior doubles player Nathan Bumstead, "and their example is one that I hope many future captains will follow."

The captains themselves have seen a lot of tennis in their days, and have been a part of a drastic overhaul of the CHS tennis program. After a new set of coaches was reined in a few years ago, the team gradually grew in numbers and strength, and this past year proved to be the most prolific in program history.

"I think we had a great season and everyone played the role that was assigned to them very well," said Weinstein. "It was a pleasure to be a part of the team, and I wish them the best in the future."

Fitzgerald added, "We had a great season, a great group of kids, and a lot of talent for a small town. I'm glad we went as far as we did."

And let's not forget the historical significance of this year's campaign, either. Not only did the Skippers finish with an incredible final tally of 19-3, but they also took down powerhouse programs such as Martha's Vineyard, and earned that oh-so-sweet golden Sectional trophy for the first time in school history. So while they never hoisted the State Championship hardware, this is a team that will forever be immortalized in the trophy case.

Luvisi recognized the team's incredible campaign, and is sure more is to come in the future of Cohasset tennis; "We had a window to go for it, and we made a valiant effort but fell a little bit short. But, we'll build on it for next year."

"We made history," said Thomae after the match, "and I think we've set the groundwork for some great things to come."

We know one thing for sure; Cohasset tennis isn't fading away anytime soon.

Sectional Finals

The Cohasset High School boys tennis team had a historic day Friday, winning the Division 3 South Sectional Tournament for the first time in school history.

The No. 3 seeded boys won the title with a 4-1 victory over Pope John Paul II at Sacred Heart High School, Friday afternoon, improving their record to 19-2.

Pope John Paul II was seeded No. 5 and finished their season 19-4.

Miles Morin and Doug Fitzgerald were winners in singles action, and both doubles teams Nathan Bumstead/Jackson Dutton and Eric Weinstein/Dan Surkovic also won.

Sam Pitts played well in a loss at third singles.

"Elation" was the answer Cohasset coach Ann Thomae gave when asked the feeling of winning. "It's a feeling of pure elation. The boys are excited because they get to play more tennis."

Fifth grade boys win TPL league championship

The Cohasset Fifth Grade boys lacrosse team capped off a successful season by winning the TPL league championship tournament on Sunday. It was not an easy path to victory, but teamwork and perseverance eventually brought home the championship.

In the first round of the playoffs, Cohasset defeated a scrappy Norwell team 12-8, establishing a big early lead and holding on for the win. The second round game was a bigger challenge as the team started slowly and fell behind 5-2 at halftime to a fired-up Hingham team. After stepping up their effort, Cohasset tied the game at 6-6 with 3 minutes to go, but a late Hingham goal had the Harbormen up by a goal with 90 seconds to play. Still, the Cohasset team didn't give up and not only tied the game with 37 seconds to go, but managed to win the game in regulation, coming up with the final face off and marching down to score the

Beating Hingham brought the Cohasset team into a game against an undefeated Duxbury squad to determine the seeding of the final four teams in the tourney. After a back and forth first half, Cohasset trailed 6-4 at the break. However, the second half started poorly and a flurry of Duxbury goals left the Cohasset team on its heels. In the end, Duxbury prevailed 14-6 and looked the far superior team, picking apart the Cohasset defense with quick passing and sharp cuts to the goal.

However, Cohasset was still the #2 seed from the south division of the league and made it into the league semi-finals to take on the top seed from the north division, Lincoln Sudbury. After a hard-fought first half, the game was knotted at 5-5. The second half was a different story. Cohasset found another gear, turning up the defensive intensity and playing patiently on offense. In the end, Lincoln Sudbury was shut out in the second half and Cohasset won 9-5 to advance to the finals for a rematch with the Duxbury team that had embarrassed them two days earlier.

The finals started much as the earlier game had ended with Duxbury jumping out to a quick 3-0 lead. However, this time, the Cohasset team did not roll over. The team buckled down defensively, began to dominate the face off game and clawed back to a 3-3 tie. Back and forth action left the game tied again at 5-5 at the half. Duxbury opened the scoring in the second half, but Cohasset responded with superior energy, winning the crucial ground balls and scoring three straight to open up an 8-6 lead with just a few minutes to go. Duxbury managed to score one more, but as time expired, the Cohasset team was on top, hanging on for a thrilling 8-7 championship victory.

Bee A Pollinator Pal Week

Thanks to the planting prowess of Osgood Elementary School's second grade Class of 2013, the pollinator friendly garden they planted last year emerged perfectly this spring after a particularly harsh winter. On June 2, when this year's Bee a Pollinator Pal Education Week was launched, the sun was shining brilliantly in a cloudless sky, the garden was sparkling with beautiful blooms, and humming with hungry happy pollinators.

The week started out perfectly; just after Osgood's Principal, Bob LeCount, greeted the second grade assembly and the naturalist from the South Shore Natural Science Center began her talk on pollination, the Cohasset Garden Club's Conservation team and helping club members noticed that a kindergarten art class was surrounding the garden sketching its flowers. Gary Kearney, one of the team's volunteer photographers, was beaming while he captured this perfect scene. To everyone's delight just after the young artists returned to their classroom, a second kindergarten class came out to release their newly hatched butterflies in the garden — another perfect picture and the epitome of the multiple teaching opportunities the garden was designed to offer.

The garden continued to bustle with activity after that: on Tuesday and Wednesday six different second grade classes learned about perennials, root systems, organic compost and its very important soil food web including the insects above and below the soil that make soil nutrients available to plants. In addition, they learned how earthworms eat and process soil and had great fun "planting" about 250 earthworms in the garden. They also learned how different pollinators choose their flowers and gather nectar, after which each class played games where the students matched the pollinators to their favorite flowers. Truly, Cohasset Garden Club's participating members had as much fun teaching each class as the students did in the garden.

Other pollinator activities that filled the week with learning fun were a Disney-nature "Wings of Life" video narrated by Meryl Streep, pollination talking points at snack time; artwork for the bulletin board; take home packages that contained marigold seeds donated by Holly Hill Farm and seed starter pots; and last but certainly not least, a butterfly release in the garden at the end of the week.

Last year's Bee a Pollinator Pal Week won the Garden Club of America's prestigious Marion Thompson Fuller Brown Award. Receiving a beautifully written thank you note from "Each one of us in second grade, students and teachers, and all of us at Osgood," was our magnificent award this year.

A very enthusiastic thank you to the Osgood community for supporting our pollinator program for the second grade; Vanessa Day, Garden Club member, Osgood curriculum coordinator and parent, and a very important part of the development of the program; and all the club's members who contributed time, energy and support over the past year.

EIGHTH ANNUAL

PMC South Shore Kids Ride, a success!

The Pan-Mass Challenge (PMC) South Shore Kids Ride rolled into the finish this year with almost 400 riders representing 25 different communities, and a record 189 volunteers. The ride raised $55,000 to date for the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute through the Jimmy Fund. Fundraising continues until September 1 and the numbers are expected to rise significantly.

It was a made-to-order, dry and sunny day at Wompatuck State Park on Sunday June 8. The park was festive and filled with hope and fun for people of all ages. Talented teen vocalist and cancer survivor Amelia Wheeler sang beautifully at the opening ceremonies, followed by State Representative Garrett Bradley's introductions of this year's pedal partner Malia Jusczyk of Plainville and alumni pedal partners Catrina Herman of Cohasset, Elena Monteiro of Whitman, and Emily Taylor of Hingham. The alumni pedal partners rang the bell to start the ride. Fifty young children pedaled on the tykes loop in the parking lot and the older children rode on the other designated routes throughout the park.

"Not only were the number of volunteers this year outstanding, but their high level of commitment and service were incredible, making the ride run so smoothly. It was a great experience for the riders and everyone involved," said Lisa Patterson, PMC South Shore Kids Ride co-chair. "We are thrilled with the number of riders and we're equally impressed with their fundraising efforts. With the tenacity of each rider and teams of 115 kids like Team Iron Strong that keep growing and contributing every year, we are confident the PMC South Shore Kids Ride will continue to break records and give the best of effort and fundraising for

This year, there were 20 participants who were recognized as Heavy Hitter fundraisers because they raised between $250 and $700. There were 12 kids who raised over $700 and they were noted in the "Break Away" category. Fundraising can still be done by the riders, virtual riders - those who didn't ride but want to fundraise, and through general donations.

In addition to the participants and volunteers, others in the community stepped up. Seven Hingham police officers and South Shore Hospital EMT's were on bikes helping to maintain safety. South Shore Hospital also provided an ambulance, which children were allowed to explore. DCR Wompatuck State Park rangers helped out with traffic and the New England Mountain Bike Association volunteered on the bike routes. Making sure everyone was hydrated, Aquarion Water Company provided water on the routes. WEEI radio was on hand as the

GIMME SHELTER

A blue-eyed, brainy beauty

CASEY FREDETTE

Many cats are pretty, many have great personalities... few are as unique as our 3-year-old girl, Ming. With her unusual markings, huge Siamese personality and bright blue eyes, she's not your average cat. It's hard to believe such a stunning young cat would be dumped into the wild. For many animals like Ming, it's a frequent reality. Ming was discarded, left to fend for herself. During her homelessness she found herself pregnant with kittens, many times. As if it wasn't hard enough staying on her toes, keeping one step ahead of predators and everyday dangers, Ming had the added responsibility of caring for her all-too-frequent litters. Eventually Ming found her way to safety, at Hull Seaside Animal Rescue. She, like all of our animals, was spayed on the Animal Rescue Leagues Spay Waggin', ending her days of kitten rearing.

Often times when a cat arrives fresh at the shelter, it needs time to adjust. Coming in to an unfamiliar space such as a community cat room, and being surrounded by strange cats, most newcomers utilize their private condos to take time, have separate space, and to hang back while they acclimate to their new setting at their own speed. Not Ming. During her adjustment period she showed off who she was. She would meow for attention and rub up against the cage in an attempt to get you to notice and play with her. Once she had you locked in, she would gleefully climb into your arms for much desired and earned affection.

Ming's standout personality puts her apart from the other shelter animals. Like most Siamese cats, Ming is adventurous and talkative, loyal and clever. Ming is not a placid, lazy cat. She would rather play and explore than lounge and sleep, spending time with "her" people, rather than enjoying time on her own. If outgoing and social, playful, interactive and generally fantastic is what you're looking for, then Ming is the cat for you. She's an entire ton of cat in a 9-pound package.

Interested in this brainy beauty? Come meet her! Open hours are Mondays 6:30-7:30 p.m. and Saturdays 2-3 p.m. Want more information or to schedule a visit? Call Judy, adoption coordinator, at 781-534-4902.

Fundraiser

Help the animals and have fun! Our yearly fundraiser is right around the corner. Gimme Shelter is being held Saturday, June 21st from 7 to 11 p.m. Join us at Raffael's Restaurant at South Shore Country Club, Hingham. The night will feature music, raffles, a silent auction and Raffael's own buffet. Tickets are available online www.hsar.org or at the door. Come out and help support the homeless cats and kittens we take in and care for everyday all while having a delicious meal, enjoying dancing, and winning prizes!

Want to hear more about the event? Tune into 95.9 WATD radio Monday night during the South Shore Live radio show during the 8 o'clock hour. Want more after that? Tune back Tuesday morning and hear our shelter manager, Casey Fredette again during the 9 a.m. hour! This time on The South Shore's Morning News.

Casey Fredette is the shelter manager of Hull Seaside Animal Rescue.

RELAY FOR LIFE

Cancer survivors walk 'Lap of Hope'

Relay For Life of Cohasset - Hingham - Hull - Scituate will kick off at 6 p.m., on Friday, June 20, with a special Survivors Lap, an experience honoring those who have defeated cancer. Survivors and their caregivers will join together to take Relay's opening lap, unified in victory and hope, while the rest of the event's participants surround the track to cheer them on. All community cancer survivors and their caregivers are welcome.

Relay For Life is a grassroots fundraising event in which individuals and teams of participants in more than 6,000 communities nationwide walk around a track overnight to celebrate the lives of those who have faced cancer, remember loved one lost and commit to fight back against the disease. Money raised through Relay For Life supports the American Cancer Society's efforts to create a world with less cancer and more birthdays.

Relay For Life events take place at an athletic track, park or other gathering area, with the goal of keeping at least one team member on the track or pathway at all times throughout the evening. Teams do most of their fundraising prior to the event, but some teams also hold creative fundraisers at their campsites during Relay. Relay brings together friends, families, businesses, hospitals, Survivors Edna Dow of Weymouth, Richie Straub of Long Island, Jim Murphy of Cohasset, Shirley Lynam of Scituate, and Harry St. Onge of Cohasset lead the survivor and caregiver lap in the Relay For Life last year at Wompatuck State Park in Hingham. schools, civic and faith-based groups - people from all walks of life - all aimed at furthering the American Cancer Society's efforts to save lives by helping people stay well, by helping them get well, by finding cures and by fighting back.

McCarron in concert choir in Ireland

Quentin McCarron of Cohasset, an eighth grader at Boston College High School Arrupe Division and a member of the Boston College High School Concert/Chamber Choir, led by Choir Director Dr. Marina Rozenberg, returned recently from a concert tour in Ireland.

While in Ireland the boys visited Trinity College and the famous Book of Kells Exhibition; the exhibit of medieval and Viking Dublin; the Powerscourt House and Gardens; and Croke Park Stadium. As one student described the trip "we sang everywhere from airport terminals, to museums, street corners and hotel lobbies. There was a lot of singing! Among others, they sang "Caccini's Ave Maria," "Pie Jesu," "Danny Boy," "Hallelujah," "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," and the "Irish National Anthem (A Soldier's Song)".

The singing adventure started at Logan airport to the delight of other travelers in Terminal E. One of the students described singing at Logan Airport as "the most memorable performance during the trip.

When we started singing the National Anthem in the middle of the airport terminal, seeing everyone watching us, then rising up, putting their hands over their hearts to pay respect to the country, and all the good it stands for. Seeing this made me think of what we were representing when we traveled to Ireland."

While in Dublin, the Choir gave concerts in St. Canice's Cathedral, city of Kilkenny, St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, Easter Liturgy service in St. Kevin's Parish Church at Glendalough. The group finished their trip with a friendship concert at Sandford Park School, Dublin.

Horoscope

SALOME'S STARS FOR RELEASE WEEK OF JUNE 23, 2014

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) A change of season reinvigorates the Lamb, helping to overcome the effects of a recent slower-paced period. This is a good time to restate your feelings for that certain someone.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You might not like using your authority to correct a workplace situation, but that's what being placed in charge is all about. Besides, you have people ready to lend support if need be.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Your creativity continues to run high and helps guide you to make some fine choices in the work you're doing. Keep the weekend free for those special people in your life.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Don't be surprised if you experience a sudden spurt of energy strong enough to pull you out of that recent period of indecision and put you back in charge of your own goals.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) This is a good time for Leos and Leonas to set new goals regarding health, educational choices and possible career moves. The plans you make now could be a blueprint for your future.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You might have much to offer a potential employer, but it can all be overwhelmed by too many details. Let the facts about you speak for themselves without any embellishments.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) This is a good week to balance your responsibilities to your work-a-day world with your obligations to the people in your private life. Expect news that could lead to a change in plans.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) A changing attitude on the part of a once determined adversary could cause changes down the line. Be prepared to take advantage of an unexpected new opportunity.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) You'd be a truly wise Sagittarius to be skeptical about an offer that doesn't answer all your questions. Even a colleague's testimonial doesn't replace facts that aren't there.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) It's a good idea to avoid spending on unnecessary purchases this week in order to keep a money reserve against a possible upcoming (but, fortunately, temporary) shortfall.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) More information is what you should demand regarding that workplace situation that recently came to light. Don't be surprised at who might turn up as one of your supporters.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) You might still be in a "treading water" mode, but by midweek, a shift in your aspect favors taking a more active role in pushing for the changes you feel are necessary. Good luck.

BORN THIS WEEK: You exude a warm, caring attitude that comforts everyone who comes into your life.

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
